Hari-bhakti-vilāsa

The Complete Vaiṣṇava Guide to Devotional Life

Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī · Sanātana Goswāmī

Complete Sanskrit-English reader · 20 vilāsas · 9,479 numbered texts

About this edition

This edition presents all twenty vilāsas of Hari-bhakti-vilāsa. Its 7,218 aligned reader entries provide uninterrupted coverage of all 9,479 numbered texts, each with Sanskrit in Devanagari and IAST followed by the complete English publication witness. The web reader and this download consume the same audited JSON corpus.

Textual witnesses

The complete five-volume Romanized Sanskrit and English edition by Bhumipati Dasa, edited by Purnaprajna Dasa, supplies the publication sequence and translation. All twenty Gaudiya Grantha Mandira files serve as the proofread Sanskrit control. GRETIL vilāsas 1–11 and an incomplete Internet Archive OCR witness are retained as independent controls, never as the coverage authority.

Coverage and documented fallback

Strict audits reconstruct the reader from the archived witnesses, require continuous numbered coverage in every vilāsa, and checksum every Sanskrit and English entry. The proofread control supplies 9,438 numbered Sanskrit texts. Thirty-seven grouped entries touching forty-one control-number gaps retain the complete edition's Romanized Sanskrit text layer and are explicitly recorded in the build ledger. No numbered text or English passage is omitted.

caitanya-devaṁ bhagavantam āśraye
śrī-vaiṣṇavānāṁ pramude'ñjasā likhan |
āvaśyakaṁ karma vicārya sādhubhiḥ sārdhaṁ samāhṛtya samasta-śāstrataḥ

Having taken shelter of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Sri Krsna Caitanya, I begin writing this book for the pleasure of the devotees. After having carefully considered the regulative principles of devotional service, I churned the great ocean of revealed scriptures and compiled this literature to explain the duties of a practicing devotee. Invoking Auspiciousness: Sri refers to the Supreme Lord, who is full of six opulences. Sri also refers to Radha. Hari refers to the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Krsna. Bhakti-vildsa refers to the love and devotion that the living entities offer to Sri Krsna, Sri Narayana, Sri Nrsirhha or Sri Ramacandra. This is the ultimate goal of life. In the Eleventh Canto of the Srlmad-Bhdgavatam, the ultimate goal of life has been described as rendering loving devotional service to the Supreme Lord. This book, Sri Sri Hari-bhakti-vildsa, contains glorification of devotional service, as well as elaborate descriptions of various limbs of sddhana-bhakti, bhdva-bhakti and prema-bhakti. Sri Narayana is the Supreme Lord of all the demigods, headed by Brahma, and Krsna is the Lord of even Narayana. For this reason, Lord Krsna is undoubtedly the supreme worshipable Lord. Still, demigods, such as Brahma and Siva, are never to be disregarded by Vaisnavas. Those literatures that do not reveal the glories of devotional service to Lord Hari are not even fit to be seen by Vaisnavas, even if they were spoken by great personalities like Brahma. In consideration of this point, the name of this book is very appropriate. It consists of twenty vilasas. The need for taking shelter at the lotus feet of a spiritual master, the characteristics of a bona-fide spiritual master, the symptoms of a qualified disciple, the spiritual master's and the disciple's tests of one another, the process for worshiping the spiritual master, the prayer of a disciple, the glories of the Supreme Lord, and the glories of Vaisnava mantras are descirbed in the first vilasa. In order to teach the proper code of conduct and to complete this book without any impediment, I first offer my obeisances at the lotus feet of my worshipable Lord, Sri Sri Radha-ramana and then at the lotus feet of Sri Caitanyadeva. Although I am the most insignificant person, by taking shelter at the lotus feet of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Sri Krsna Caitanya, who is full of six opulences and who is the reservior of unlimited transcendental qualities, nothing remains unfulfilled. My ability lies in His mercy and His potency. I have taken up this difficult task simply by His inspiration. I have no power to do anything independently. As long as I remain surrendered at the lotus feet of Sri Krsna Caitanya, nothing will be difficult to accomplish. The limbs of devotional service are described throughout the Vedas, Puranas. and Pancaratras. 1 have carefully collected these descriptions and presented them in this book.

Sri Gopala Bhatta, the disciple of Sri Prabodhananda SarasvatI, who was a dear associate of Sri Krsna Caitanyadeva, has compiled the most glorious limbs of devotional service and divided them into twenty vildsas. That is why this book has been named Sri Hari-bhakti-vildsa. I compiled this literature to please Sri Rupa and Sri Sanatana, who were the two chair persons of the Visva Vaisnava Raja Sabha, as well as my companion, Srlla Raghunatha dasa Gosvaml.

In the twelfth and thirteenth vildsas, the following subjects are discussed—the observance of the vow of Ekadasi , the process for following the vows of Dasami and Dvddasl, following the vow of the eight mahd-dvddasls, and the glories of staying awake at night. The fourteenth and fifteenth vildsas discuss the process of following the rituals prescribed for eleven months, such as agrahayana. The sixteenth vilasa discusses the glories of observing the vow for the month of Karttika and the process of observing it. The seventeeth vilasa discusses the process for chanting mantras that are given by one's spiritual master, and the symptoms of the perfection achieved by the chanting of mantras. The eighteenth vilasa discusses the various manifestions of the Deity form of the Lord. The nineteenth vilasa discusses the process for installing the Deities. The twentieth vilasa discusses the glories of building a temple of Lord Krsna and the process of building it, the renovation of an old temple, the process for conducting the marriage of Tulasi-devi, and the symptoms of an unalloyed devotee of the Lord.

By the mercy of Sri Krsnacandra, one attains the association of His devotees, and as a result of such association, one receives an opportunity to hear the glories of devotional service. Persons who desire to engage in pure devotional service, which derides even the concept of liberation, should take shelter of a bona-fide spiritual master.

After realizing that day-to-day life in this material world is simply miserable, and after hearing from sastra about the unbearable miseries that may be experienced in the next life, intelligent persons should take shelter at the lotus feet of a bona-fide spiritual master to be delivered from such miseries, and to hear about the glories of devotional service. Otherwise, one will be as foolish as the hunter who committed suicide.

After many, many births and deaths one achieves the rare human form of life, which, although temporary, affords one the opportunity to attain the highest perfection. Thus, a sober human being should immediately endeavor for the ultimate perfection in life and not fall down into the cycle of repeated birth and death. After all, sense gratification is available even in the most abominable species of life, whereas Krsna consciousness is only possible for a human being.

The human body, which can award all benefit in life, is automatically obtained by the laws of nature, although it is a very rare achievement. This human body can be compared to a perfectly constructed boat having the spiritual master as the captain and the instructions of the Supreme Personality of Godhead as favorable winds impelling it on its course. Considering all these advantages, a human being who does not utilize his human life to cross the ocean of material existence must be considered the killer of his own soul.

A person who desires to learn the science of devotional service should take shelter of an dcdrya; who is a knower of the Vedas; who has conquered the six enemies—lust, anger, greed, illusion, pride and envy; who has intense devotion for the lotus feet of Sri Krsna; who knows the rules and regulations that must be practiced on the path of pure devotional service and that are described in the Vedas and Pancaratras; who is respected by other saintly persons; and whose senses are fully under his control. He should then serve the dcdrya with his body, mind and words.

To learn the spiritual science, one must approach a bona-fide spiritual master. While approaching a spiritual master, one should carry wood to burn in sacrifice. The symptom of such a spiritual master is that he is expert in understanding the Vedic conclusions. Therefore, he constantly engages in the service of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. One who follows the disciplic succession of ācāryas knows things as they are.

The mind is like an impetuous horse that even persons who have regulated their senses and breath cannot control. Those in this world who try to tame the uncontrolled mind, but who abandon the lotus feet of their spiritual master, encounter hundreds of obstacles in their cultivation of various distressful practices. O unborn Lord, they are like merchants on a boat in the ocean who have failed to employ a helmsman.

He does not find fault with others. He speaks sweetly. He is gentle, free from contamination, attractive, always desires benefit for all living entities, intelligent, sober, free from material desires, non-envious, expert in discussing spiritual subject matters, steady, always engaged in the worship of the Supreme Lord, always ready to do good to others, very affectionate to his disciples, . . .

A bona-fide spiritual master is a worshiper of the Supreme Lord. He is devoid of desires for sense gratification, the knower of the soul's constitutional and conditional states, a teacher of the Vedas, a preacher of the purport of the Vedic literature, expert in chanting and purifying mantras, a topmost brdhmana, a knower of yantras and mantras, capable of removing all doubts, a knower of the confidential meanings of sdstra, expert in achieving perfection by reciting mantras, a knower of mantras that are chanted while performing a fire sacrifice, expert in applying mantras to appropriate circumstances, an asetic, and truthful. He may belong to the householder stage of life.

Even though a spiritual master possesses the above-mentioned qualities, he should never accept disciples simply for his comfort, fame, and accumulation of wealth. Rather, a spiritual master who is most compassionate should accept disciples for the benefit of the fallen conditioned souls. Because the spiritual master is self-satisfied, by Krsna's mercy, he is the benefactor of all living entities, free from all material desires, always perfect, expert in all departments of knowledge, expert in removing all doubts, and never lazy.

A spiritual master should be an exalted brahmana who knows the five types of knowledge that are described in the Paficaratra. He should display his mercy to the members of all varnas by giving them initiation. In the absence of such a qualified brahmana, a ksatriya who is peaceful, always fixed in thought of the Supreme Lord, pure-hearted, a knower of everything, a knower of sastra, always engaged in pious activities, a master of the three kinds of perfection, and who is one who has received initiation mantras from his own spiritual master, is able to give initiation—otherwise not. A ksatriya spiritual master can display his mercy to candidates belonging to the ksatriya, vaisya and sudra communities. In the absence of such a ksatriya spiritual master, a vaisya with the above-mentioned qualities can give initiation to members of vaisya and sudra communities. In the same way, a sudra spiritual master with the above-mentioned qualities can give initiation to members of the sudra community. When his disciples are mature, such a spiritual master should entrust them with the responsibility of becoming spiritual masters themselves.

A disciple should not massage, bathe, eat the remnants of food, or wash the feet of his spiritual master's son. If the wife of the spiritual master is from the same varna, she should be respected the same as the spiritual master. If she is not, she should be respected simply by standing up from one's seat and offering some kind of greeting. The disciple should not massage with oil the body of his spiritual master's wife, apply sandalwood paste to her, or comb her hair.

The eight-syllable mantra, which is the essence of all vedantas and which is expert in delivering one from the ocean of material existence, is the ultimate goal of all human beings. Wherever the most fortunate person who attained perfection in chanting the eight-syllable mantra resides, no disease, famine or theives can enter. The demigods, demons, Gandharvas, Siddhas, Vidyadharas, and other followers of the demigods offer their respectful obeisances to that great soul who has mastered the chanting of the eight-syllable mantra. It is stated in sastra that Lord Narayana has personally appeared in the form of the eight-syllable mantra, which is being uttered repeatedly bv the practitioners of devotional service.

One teacher of the Nrsirhha-mantra is equal to a hundred teachers of the Angirasa branch of the Atharva Veda. A teacher of the Nrsirhha-mantra achieves the supreme destination, where there is no distress, which is not illuminated by the sun, where the wind does not blow, where there is no need of the moon, where there are no stars, where fire does not burn, where there is no entry of Death personified, and where there are no faults. That supreme abode is always blissful, eternal, peaceful, auspicious, worshiped by great personalities like Brahma, and the object of the yogis' meditation. When one attains this supreme abode, he never returns to the material world. This abode has been glorified by the mantras of the Rg Veda as follows: That is the supreme abode of Lord Visnu. Liberated persons can directly see that eternal abode.

Because this six-syllable Rama mantra is the best among all Rama mantras, it has been described as the king of mantras. One who chants this mantra is quickly freed from all the reactions of sins that are committed daily, fort-nightly, monthly, seasonally, and yearly—just as fire quickly burns a mountain of cotton to ashes. Sins committed by killing innumerable brdhmanas; sins committed knowingly or unknowingly; the sins of stealing, drinking wine, and having an intimate relationship with the wife of one's spiritual master, as well as thousands of other sins, are destroyed by constantly chanting this Rama mantra.

In reply, Brahma said, "Lord Krsna is the Supreme Brahman. He is the Supreme Personality of Godhead and He is eternal, full of knowledge and full of bliss. He is the worshipable Lord of all. Even Death personified is afraid of Sri Govinda. Simply by obtaining knowledge of the characteristics of Lord Gopijanavallabha, everything becomes known. This material exitence is under the control of His external energy, mayd." The sages asked Brahma, "Who is Krsna? Who is Govinda? Who is Gopijanavallabha?"

Brahma replied, "The most worshipable Lord Krsna is He who forgives the offenses of even the demons. The name Govinda means the Lord of the cows of Vrndavana, the Lord of the earth, and the Lord of everything that is described in the Vedas. Gopljanavallabha refers to He who inspires the gopis to participate in His transcendental pastimes. The word svdhd refers to the energy of the Lord. There is no difference between the energy and the energetic. One who meditates upon the Lord and becomes jubilant upon seeing His form and who worships Him as the predominating Deity of this mantra, certainly attains immortality." The sages said, "O lord, what does He look like? What should one do to please Him? What is the method for worshiping Him? We wish to know all of this and so kindly describe it to us in detail." Brahma replied to the sages, headed by Sanaka, "O sages, His form is like that of a cowherd boy. His complexion is like that of a newly-formed monsoon cloud. He is ever youthful. He is like a desire tree and He resides under a desire tree."

The process for worshiping the Lord is to render devotional service unto Him. The supreme form of worship is to concentrate one's mind on Krsna while giving up all desires for sense gratification. Those sages who are conversant with Vedic knowledge worship Krsna in various moods, beginning with santa, and they worship Govinda with nine types of devotional service. The same Govinda appears as Gopljanavallabha and sustains the universes. The Supreme Lord creates the universe through the agency of His external energy.

In the beginning of creation, the Supreme Lord first created Brahma. Sri Krsna then assumed various forms, such as Matsya and Hayagrlva to deliver the Vedas, which were submerged within the water of annihilation. The Lord then instructed the Vedas to Brahma. Every person who desires liberation should take shelter of the self-manifest Supreme Personality of Godhead, Krsna.

The eighteen-syllable mantra is the origin of all other mantras. Lord Krsna reveals Himself to a devotee who chants this five-word, eighteen- syllable Govinda mantra which begins and ends with orh. Persons who desire liberation from material existence and eternal peace should always chant this Govinda mantra.

Brahma then said, "During the first half of my life, I meditated upon and offered prayers to the Supreme Lord. At the end of the second half of my life, at the end of my night, the Supreme Lord assumed the form of a cowherd boy, woke up from His yoga-nidrd, and appeared before me." "When the Supreme Lord appeared before me, I offered my obeisances at His lotus feet, with love and devotion. At that time, the Lord imparted to me the eighteen-syllable mantra, which is nondifferent from Him, to empower me to create. After telling me this mantra, the Supreme Lord disappeared." "Thereafter, when I desired to take up the work of creation, He again manifested before me in the form of a cowherd boy and displayed to me the would-be universe, within the eighteen-syllable mantra." "Thereafter, I created water from the letter ka of kllrh, earth from the letter la, fire from the letter e, and the moon from bindu. I then created the sun from klim. After this, I created the sky from the word krsndya, air from the word govinddya, and the Surabhi cow and fourteen types of knowledge from gopljana and vallabhaya, respectively." "After that, 1 created all of the moving and non-moving beings, including men, women and those that are neuter. In this way, I completed the work of creation."

Brahma created the universe from the sacred syllable orh. This is described in the Sruti-sira Upanisad. The earth was produced from the syllable la, water was produced from the syllable lea, fire was produced from the syllable I, air was produced from sound, and the sky was produced from bindu. That is why this mantra is said to be the origin of the five elements. From sva of svdhd appeared the spirit soul and the Supersoul, and from ha appeared the spiritual potency. By the combination of both the material and spiritual potencies, the creation takes place. The creation is finally dissolved into svdhd.

The siddha-sddhaka mantra bears fruit by performing sacrifices while doubling the number of oblations. The siddha-susiddha mantra bears fruit even if chanted half the required number of times. The Siddha-ari mantra bears the fruit of destroying one's relatives. The sddhya-siddha mantra bears fruit when chanted twice as many times as prescribed. The sddhya-sddhya mantra bears no fruit. The sddhya-susiddha mantra bears fruit when it is chanted three times the prescribed number of times. The sddhya-ari mantra kills the entire family of the chanter. The susiddha mantra bears fruit even when chanted half the prescribed number of times. The susiddha-sddhya mantra bears fruit after a great deal of chanting. The susiddha-susiddha mantra bears fruit immediately, and the susiddha-ari mantra destroys the chanter's family. The ari-siddha mantra kills one's sons, the ari-sadhya mantra kills one's daughters, the ari-susiddha mantra kills one's wife, and the ari-ari mantra kills the chanter himself.

When one extracts a mantra from the mdtrkd alphabets, it is called janana. Persons who are expert in the subject of mantras and trantras speak as follows: When an intelligent person chants a mantra, vibrating om in the beginning and at the end, it is called jivana. When one writes the letters of a mantra and then sprinkles over it water mixed with sandalwood, that is called tadana. When one writes the letters of a mantra with the seed of a karavi flower, it is called rodhana. According to the rules that are prescribed in the Tantras, a devotee should use as many asvattha leaves as there are letters in the mantra, for the purpose of purification. This process is called abhiseka. A devotee should meditate on the mantra and place it in the fire, just to purify it. This is called vimall-karana. It is also known as a jyoti-mantra because it consists of om, the vyoma-blja and the agni-bija. When one sprinkles water with kusa grass on each letter of the mantra before chanting it, that is called apyayana. When one writes the mantra inside the yantra and then sprinkles it with water that has been purified by mantras, this is called tarpana. When one chants the mantra along with om, the maya-blja and the laksml-bija, it is called dlpana. When one conceals the mantra at the time of chanting it, this is called gupti.

I offer my respectful obeisances at the lotus feet of my grand- spiritual master, and the spiritual master of the entire world, Sri Krsna Caitanyadeva. Simply by His mercy, even an insignificant dog can cross beyond the great ocean. Although I am very insignificant, I am confident that I will be able to write this chapter by His mercy.

By accepting initiation into the chanting of the Visnu mantras, one makes himself worthy of being praised even by Lord Siva. As one cannot separate himself from his worship of the Supreme Lord, so he cannot separate himself from accepting initiation.

between Brahma and Narada that is recorded in the Kartika-prasanga section of the Skanda Purdna, the following statement is found) te nardh pasabo loke kim tesdth jivane phalam yenair labdhd harer diksd ndrcito va janardanah Those who have not taken initiation from a spiritual master, according to the prescribed rules and regulations, and who have not worshiped the Supreme Lord, Janardana, are as good as animals because their lives are spent uselessly. This statement confirms that initiation is an eternal funtion.

Visnu-ydmala, in the conversation between Rukmangada and Mohinl, the following statement is found) adiksitasya vdmoru krtarh sarvam nirartakarh pasuyonim avapnoti diksd virohito janah O beauciful one, all activities performed by an uninitiated person are useless. Not only that—after death, such a person receives the body of an animal.

Simply by worshiping the Supreme Lord, one attains extraordinary results. What then is the need of taking initiation from a spiritual master? In answer to this, it is said; If one worships Lord Hari, without first learning the rules and regulations for worship that were laid down by previous mahdjanas from one's spiritual master, he attains only one- hundredth part of the result of his worship. If one worships the Lord under the guidance of his spiritual master, he attains the complete result.

grhnlyad vaisnavarh mantrarh diksd-piirvarh vidhdnatah Dlksd is the process by which one can awaken his transcendental knowledge and vanquish all reactions to sinful activities performed in the past. A person who is expert in the study of the revealed scriptures knows this process as dlksd. It is the duty of every human being to surrender to a bona-fide spiritual master. While offering him everything—including one's body, mind and intelligence—one should take Vaisnava initiation from him.

If one takes initiation into the Gopala mantra in the month of March- April, all of his objectives in life will be attained. If one takes initiation in the month of April-May, he will attain opulence—in the month of May- June, he will meet with death—in the month of June-July, he will lose his friends—in the month of July-August, he will enjoy a long duration of life—in the month of August-September, he will lose his followers—in the month of September-October, he will attain opulence—in the month of October-November, he will attain the perfection of chanting his mantra—in the month of November-December, he will attain the same result—in the month of December-January, he will be troubled by his enemies—in the month of January-February, his intelligence will become enhanced—and in the month of February-March, all of his desires will be fulfilled. One is forbidden to take initiation in the added month called Purusottama-adhika-mdsa.

Whenever the spiritual master desires to give it—that is the perfect time for accepting initiation. Visiting holy places, observing vows, performing sacrifices, taking a holy bath, and chanting mantras are not the criteria for taking initiation. Rather, the darsana of a bona-fide spiritual master and his supreme will are the criteria for accepting initiation.

There are four types of initiation—kriydvati, kaldvati, varnamayl and vedhamayl. Now, we shall discuss kriydvati initiation in brief. First of all, one should cleanse a particular place and worship the predominating deity of the earth. Thereafter, one should erect a square, raised platform. The diameter of the platform should be seven or eight feet. O n the four sides of the platform, one should put eight flags—two on each side. O n e should also place branches of a banyan tree on both sides of the altar, to erect a gate. One should surround the altar with braided rope made of kusa grass.

In order to perform fifty fire sacrifices, one should dig a kunda, or pit, which should be about one foot deep. To perform one hundred fire sacrifices, the kunda should be about one foot, two inches deep. To perform one thousand fire sacrifices, the kunda should be one foot, four inches deep. To perform one hundred thousand fire sacrifices, the kunda should be five feet, four inches deep, and to perform one million, or one koti, fire sacrifices, the kunda should be ten feet, eight inches deep. The pit of the kunda should be in the form of a square.

If the kunda is too wide or too small then one shortens his duration of life. If the kunda is too deep, one will become diseased. If it is too shallow then one loses his wealth. If it is crooked, one will have to suffer miseries, and if the boundaries are broken, one will have to face death in the near future.

The ten expansions of Agnl are—Dhumrarci, Usma, Jvalanl, Jvalini, Visphulingini, Susri, Surupa, Kapila, Havya and Kavya. Some people think of a ten-petal lotus flower at the root of the water pot and worship the ten expansions of Agnl on those petals. Some people think of a twelve-petal lotus within the water pot and worship the twelve expansions of Surya

as being situated on those petals. There are still other persons who first fill the pitcher with Ganges water and then think of a sixteen-petal lotus flower in the mouth of the pitcher and worship the sixteen expansions of Candra as being situated on those petals. The ten expansions of Surya are—Tapani, Tapani, Dhumra, Bhramarl, JvalinI, RucI, Susumna, Bhogada, Visva, BodhinI, DharinI and Ksama. The sixteen expansions of Candra are—Amrta, Manada, Pusa, Tusti, Pusti, Rati, Dhrtih, SasinI, Candrika, Kanti, Jyotsna, Sri, Priti, Rangada, Purna and Purnamrta.

In preparation for performing a fire sacrifice for initiation, one should sweep the whole arena with a broom made of kusa grass. One should start sweeping from the southeast while chanting the vdyu-blja mantra. After sweeping, one should sprinkle water all over while chanting the varuna-blja mantra. Then, one should throw mustard seeds on the ground while chanting the astra-mantra. After that, one should sprinkle panca- gavya on the arena. After all this has been done, one should worship the predominating deity of the earth, as well as the ten dikpalas.

One should write the sri-bija mantra in the middle of the sacrificial kunda, and sprinkle purified water with kusa grass. Then, one should take full blades of kusa grass and place it there. The priest should then invite Laksml and Visnu, and worship Them. Before doing so, he should happily bring some fire from the house of an agnlhotri and worship it with flowers and other paraphernalia. He should then meditate on the fire as the semen of Lord Visnu.

Thereafter, he should worship the fire, as well as the kunda, by chanting the sacred syllable orh.

HBV 2.90

After completing his morning duties, the spiritual master should first worship the Supreme Lord, as situated within the waterpot, and then perform a fire sacrifice at that place. Next, he should offer the Lord's remnants to the Lord's associates and other great personalities. After this, he should completely surrender himself unto the Supreme Lord and then start performing the other rituals that are to be performed for the waterpot.

Thereafter, the spiritual master should place his hand on the head of his disciple and utter the initiation mantra three times in the disciple's right ear. Even if the mantra is very long, the spiritual master should go on repeating it until the disciple is able to chant it without difficulty. A disciple should also chant the mantra while considering the spiritual master, the Supreme Lord, and the mantra to be one and the same.

The spiritual master should then say, "May this mantra benefit both you and me" while putting a small amount of water in the right hand of his disciple. He should think that an effulgence of spiritual knowledge, in the form of the mantra., is emanating from his body and entering his disciple's body. The disciple should also feel honored that he has received transcendental knowledge from his spiritual master's body.

The spiritual master should then give his disciple the Lord's remnants in the form of sweet rice. He should also bless him by saying, "May you achieve a long life, good health, opulence, victory, and good fortune." After blessing him in this way, the spiritual master should put a few grains of rice on his disciple's head.

O Goddess, now hear from me about the process of worshiping Lord Visnu, the Lord of lords. This process awards one wealth and children and it destroys the sins of killing a brdhmana, drinking wine, stealing from others, having intimate association with the wife of one's spiritual master, and associating with sinful people.

Those who desire liberation from material existence should be bathed with the Vaisnava kumbha. Those who desire material happiness should be bathed with the Indra kumbha. Those who desire victory and influence should be bathed with the Agnl kumbha. Those who hope to conquer death should be bathed with the Yama kumbha. Those who want to destroy their enemies should be bathed with the Nairta kumbha. Those who desire peace should be bathed with the Varuna kumbha. Those who want to counteract their sinful reactions should be bathed with the Vayu kumbha. Those who want material prosperity should be bathed with the Kuvera kumbha and those who want to gain knowledge should be bathed with the Raudra kumbha. By accepting this process, all of these persons will become relieved oi their sinful reactions, attain transcendental knowledge, and become prosperous. Then, what can be said of those who are bathed with water

After worshiping the predominating deities of the directions, the spiritual master should invite the prospective disciples who have been tested and whose eyes are covered by a white cloth. He should then describe to these disciples, who have purified themselves by chanting the Agni, Vayu and Varuna mantras, the various rules and regulations.

The spiritual master should instruct his disciples to never blaspheme the brahmanas, demigods, Lord Visnu, Brahma, Rudra, Surya, Agni, the Lokapalas, the predominating deities of the planets, and senior Vaisnavas. Rather, they should offer all respect to everyone. The disciple should gladly accept these instructions. Thereafter, the spiritual master should perform a fire sacrifice and purify the bodies of his disciples by performing the nyasa. The spiritual master should perform the fire sacrifice while chanting this sixteen- syllable mantra: orh namo bhagavate visnave sarvarupine hum. He should offer oblations three times to the Supreme Lord and perform all the other required rituals. The spiritual master should then uncover the eyes of his disciples, make them sit in front of the sacrificial fire, and then impart to them the initiation mantras.

After the fire sacrifice is completed, an intelligent disciple should give daksina to his spiritual master. If a disciple is as rich as a king, he should offer an elephant, a horse, jewels, gold and other valuable objects to his spiritual master. If the disciple is from a middle-class background, he should offer daksina accordingly, and if he is from a poor family, he should simply offer a dhoti and a chddar to his spiritual master.

The result one achieves by chanting mantras during a solar or lunar eclipse is doubled if an initiated person hears the Varaha Purana. O maintainer of the living entities, the demigods pray to be born in the land of Bharata-varsa, become initiated from a bona-fide spiritual master, hear the Varaha Purana and other Purdnas, and visit that sacred place where the Varaha Purana is being recited. They also pray to be able to witness a Varaha-yajfia on the full moon day in the month of Karttika.

O sustainer of the world, I have thus briefly described to you the procedures for initiation. It is very rarely practiced, even by the demigods, Gandharvas and Yaksas.

O Goddess, it is said that anyone who understands this subject matter, who sees an initiation arena, and who hears this sacred instruction— attains liberation.

When an auspicious moment arises, one should establish within the purified arena meant for initiation a new waterpot that is decorated with sandalwood paste and flowers, wrapped with a cloth, and filled with water, medicinal herbs, five types of jewels, and seven types of clay. The waterpot should have five kinds of twigs on top.

The seven types of clay are—clay collected from a horse shed isala), from an elephant shed (gajasdld), from an anthill (valmlk), from the junction of four roads (catuspata), from the royal court (rdjadvdra), from a pasturing ground (gosta), and from the bank of a river (naditira). After worshiping Sri Krsna, the spiritual master should worship the waterpot, using kusa grass, while chanting appropriate mantras one thousand and eight times.

For people who are devoid of greed for obtaining wealth, who are afraid of material existence, who are unduplicitous devotees of Lord Visnu, and who are poor, the spiritual master should perform a fire sacrifice by offering ghee and barley into the fire- If he is unable to do this, he should perform a fire sacrifice only with water or only with mantras, and then bless his disciples by giving them the initiation mantra.

There is no doubt that persons who are in the mode of goodness achieve fame, magnanimity, wealth, birth in a good family, and happiness simply by educating people in the science of Krsna consciousness. Just as the Supreme Lord, Visnu, is foremost among all the demigods, distribution of knowledge is the best charity.

By distributing knowledge to the embodied living entities, one's sinful reactions that have been accumulated from one hundred lifetimes are immediately destroyed. There is no better form of charity than distributing transcendental knowledge to others because by doing so, one can easily attain the lotus feet of the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

As water kept in a human skull or in a pot made of dog skin is contaminated due to its contact with an impure object—all the activities of a person who does not follow the codes of proper conduct are contaminated. O King, a person devoid of proper behavior does not become happy, either in this life or in the next. Just as remembering Lord Hari is essential, so is the following of proper etiquette.

सद्-आचारवता पु□सा जितौ लोकाव् उभाव् अपि

sad-ācāravatā puṁsā jitau lokāv ubhāv api visnu purdne tatraiva grhidharma prasange (About the duty of a householder, it is said in the Visnu Pur ana) saddcdravatd purhsd jitau lokabubhdvapi Persons who are throughly exemplary in their behavior are victorious in this life and in the next.

Saintly persons are those who are not contaminated by the fault of failing to observe the codes of proper conduct. The word sat means "honest". The behavior of devotees is called saddcdra.

Therefore, the twice-born should carefully practice sadacara. Even holy places desire the association of well-behaved saintly persons.

HBV 3.15

Religious principles are born from the codes of proper conduct. Saintly persons are always inclined to follow the codes of proper conduct and so their behavior and acivities are known as sadacara.

HBV 3.16

O King, if one follows the codes of proper conduct, one is sure to attain the three objectives of life—religiosity, economic development, and sense gratification—in this very life. Therefore, every intelligent person should conscientiously follow the path of saddcdra, as it is described in the scriptures.

HBV 3.20

brāhme muhūrta utthāya kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇeti kīrtayan |
prakṣālya pāṇi-pādau ca danta-dhāvanam ācaret

One should rise early in the morning, during the brdhma-muhurta (one hour and thirty-six minutes before sunrise), while chanting the holy name of Lord Krsna. He should then wash his hands and feet and brush his teeth.

and thus remember Him early in the morning) (In the Srlmad-Bhagavatam [10.90.48] it is stated) jayati jana-nivdso devaki-janma-vado yadu-vara-parisat svair dorbhir asyann adharmam sthira-cara-vrjina-ghnah su-smita-sri-mukhena vraja-pura-vanitanarh vardhayan kama-devam Lord Sri Krsna is He who is known as jana-nivasa, the ultimate resort of all living entities, and who is also known as Devakinandana or Yasoda- nandana, the son of Devakl and Yas'oda. He is the guide of the Yadu dynasty, and with His mighty arms He kills everything inauspicious, as well as every man who is impious. By His presence He destroys all things inauspicious for all living entities, moving and inert. His blissful smiling race always increases the lusty desires of the gopls of Vrndavana. May He be all glorious and happy!

In order to nullify all kinds of faults that may be found in the society of devotees, and to obtain auspicious results, one should repeatedly chant the following three verses.

प्रातः स्मरामि भव-भीति-महार्ति-शान्त्यै

grāhābhibhūta-vara-vāri-vāraṇa-mukti-hetuṁ cakrāyudhaṁ taruṇa-vārija-patra-netram

In the morning, I meditate on the lotus-eyed Lord Narayana, who destroys the fearful disease of material existence, who rides on the back of Gaurda, whose navel is the birthplace of the universal lotus flower, who delivered the King of elephants when he was attacked by a crocodile, and who carries a disc in His hand.

Chanting the mantra, sanna apah, is considered to be a mantra bath. Touching clay is called a parthiva bath. Smearing one's body with ashes is called an agneya bath. Smearing one's body with dust from cows' hooves is called a vdyavya bath. Taking a bath in the rain, when there is sunshine, is called a divya bath. Taking a bath in a river or pond is called a varuna bath, and taking a bath in one's mind, while meditating on Lord Visnu, is called a manasa bath.

It is recommended that one wash his genitals once, his anus five times, his left hand ten times, both hands seven times, both feet once, and again both hands three times with water and clay. This process of cleansing should be continued until any bad odor has completely vanished. This procedure is meant for householders. Brahmacdris should double the numbers mentioned for householders, vanaprasthas should triple the numbers, and sannyasls should quadruple them. At night, one may cleanse himself half the number of times recommended for the day. When one is sick, he should also cleanse himself half the number of times recommended for the day. If one is being harassed, he may decrease the number of times he cleanses himself. Ladies can cleanse themselves one-fourth the number of times recommended for householders. If one is healthy, he should not decrease the amount of times he cleanses himself. Each time one cleanses himself, he should use an amount of clay equal in size to an dmalakl fruit.

While washing his hands again, a Vaisnava should chant the name, Hrsikesa. While washing his feet, he should chant the name, Padmanabha. While washing his head, he should chant the name, Damodara. While washing his mouth, he should chant the name, Vasudeva. While washing his nostrils, he should chant the names, Sankarsana and Pradyumna. While washing his eyes, he should chant the names, Aniruddha and Purusottama. While washing his ears, he should chant the names Adhoksaja and Nrsimhadeva. While washing his navel, he should chant the name, Acyuta. While purifying his heart, he should chant the name, Janardhana. While purifying his forehead, he should chant the name, Upendra. While washing his right arm, he should chant the name, Hari, and while purifying his left arm, he should chant the name, Krsna. While chanting these holy names, one should complete the name in the fourth dative case and add the word namah. If one is unable to follow this procedure, due to illness, he can simply touch his right ear. This is the recommendation given in the scriptures.

The best wood for brushing one's teeth is a twig as thick as one's middle finger. It should be about six inches long and with the bark intact. One should hold the twig at the base and brush his teeth with the front portion. Twigs from peepal and malatl trees are auspicious, and twigs from bilva and apdmdrga trees are especially auspicious. Twigs from karavl, dkunda and similar trees should not be used for brushing one's teeth. A person who knows the prescribed rules and regulations should choose an appropriate twig and brush his teeth daily, except on prohibited days. O n e should not use a twig that has been split in half. O n e should not hold the twig with the tip of his fingers. After brushing one's teeth, one should throw the twig in a proper place.

A person who bathes daily does not suffer the punishment of Yamaraja. What to speak of this, even the most sinful people become purified by bathing daily. O Vaisya, by bathing in the morning one becomes purified, both internally and externally. As a result, one becomes thoroughly purified and so does not have to suffer in hell. Those who bathe in the flowing water of streams on auspicious occassions never suffer from any distress. Such people will not have to accept a birth in a low-class family. O best of the vaisyas, those who become purified by bathing in the morning do not have bad dreams or anxieties.

By bathing daily one's mind becomes joyful, the demigods become pleased, and one develops good fortune, beauty, happiness, good health, piety, knowledge, fame and patience. Bathing in the morning destroys grave sinful reactions, removes inauspicious symptoms, as well as anxiety, lamentation, and distress.

Bathing in the morning awards a person benefit, both in this world and in the next. Therefore, it is highly praised by thoughtful people. There is no doubt that all sinful reactions can be destroyed simply by bathing in the morning.

The human body is always considered to be contaminated. It consists of nine holes through which contaminated substances are excreted. By bathing in the morning, all types of contamination becomes cleared off. In other words, by bathing in the morning, the body becomes pure. Bathing in the morning gives one enthusiasm, intelligence, good fortune, beauty, wealth, and happiness. For this reason, it is highly glorified.

Learned people say that bathing as the sun rises destroys all sinful reactions, just like the vow of prajapatya. A morning bath destroys sin, inauspicious symptoms, laziness, impurities, and the effects of bad dreams. It awards one satisfaction and good health. Miseries can never approach a person who bathes in the morning. A morning bath is beneficial in this life and in the next. These are all reasons why one should bathe early in the morning.

O He whose voice is grave, like the ocean! O He who holds a stick in His hand! O killer of the demons! O creator of the universe! O annihilator of the universe! O master of the demigods, I offer my obeisances unto You." After chanting this mantra, one should prepare to bathe in a holy reservoir of water. If one does not follow this procedure, the predominating deity of the holy place takes away half of the piety that one had accumulated by bathing there. Before bathing, one should pray as follows to the Lord, to obtain permission for bathing and rendering service in that holy place: O Lord of lords! O Lord of the universe! O holder o{ the conch, disc, club, and lotus! O Lord Visnu, kindly give me permission to serve Your holy place.

Thereafter, accoring to the prescribed rules and regulations, one should smear clay over his body and then enter the water of that holy place. If one bathes in a river, he should turn so that he is facing against the current, and if he is bathing in a pond or lake, he should face the sun. Thereafter, one should purify all directions and then invoke Goddess Ganga as emanating from the sun. Afterwards, one should hold kusa grass in his hand and meditate on the lotus feet of Sri Krsna while simultaneiously practicing prdndydma. He should then bathe in the holy water after chanting the holy name of the Supreme Lord and performing dcamana and prdndyama, while chanting the mula-mantra. Thereafter, one should once again bathe while remembering Sri Krsna. One should submerge himself in the water twelve times while chanting one of these holy names each time—Kesava, Narayana, Madhava, Govinda, Visnu, Madhusudana, Trivikrama, Vamana, Srldhara, Hrsikes'a, Padmanabha and Damodara.

All the holy water and all the demigods, headed by Brahma, are not equal to even one-sixteenth portion of the water that has washed the lotus feet of Lord Visnu. The sinful reactions for the killing of a brahmana can at once be vanquished if one sprinkles on his head the water that has been used to bathe a salagrama-sila or a dvdrakd-sila. A person who bathes with the water that has been used to bath the salagrama-sila, after putting it in a conch shell, attains the result of bathing after conducting a grand sacrifice. Such a person is also considered to have bathed in the Ganges.

By bathing in a river that does not flow into the ocean, a person gets three times the benefit of bathing once at home. By bathing in a river that flows into the ocean, one gets fifteen times the benefit of bathing once at home. By bathing in the sea, one receives the benefit of bathing at home for one month. A single bath in the river Godavarl awards the same result as bathing for six months. Bathing only once in the Ganges awards one the result of bathing for one year, and simply by bathing once in the water that has washed the lotus feet of the Supreme Lord, one obtains the result of bathing for twelve years.

statement of the Vedas. Because the brdhmanas are the worshipers of Gayatri, the mother of the Vedas, they are neither considered to be the followers of Siva nor Visnu—they are followers of the Lord's energy. Sandhya is she from whom the whole universe has emanated. She is transcendental, pure, born from the three truths, and the undivided spiritual energy. Learned persons should meditate on Gayatri as situated within the sun, and then chant the Gayatri mantra. A hrahmana should always sit facing east while performing the sadhya and other rituals.

A wise person should sit down facing east and chant the Gayatri mantra with a steady mind. Chanting the Gayatri mantra one thousand times is best, chanting one hundred times is better, and chanting ten times is good. O n e who does not perform the sandhya rituals is always impure and therefore not qualified to perform daily and occasional ritualistic activities. Whatever such a person may do, he fails to achieve any tangible result. One who gives up the performance of the sandhya rituals and endeavors for performing other religious and ritualistic activities traverses the path to hell, again and again.

Dharmaraja, Mrtyu, Antaka, Vaivasvata, Kala, Sarvabhutaksaya, Aurdumvara, Dadhna, Nlla, Paramesthi, Vrkodara, Citra, and Citragupta. Next, one should hold kusa grass in his hands and offer oblations to the forefathers of his father's family and mother's family while observing the prescribed rules and regulations and chanting their names and lineage. One should then chant the following mantra: yeha vdndhava vdndhava va yehanya janmani vdndhavdh te trptim akhilarh ydntu ye cdsmattoya kdnksinah—may all those who are related to me in this life and were related to me in previous lives, as well as those who expect oblations from me, become pleased.

According to the evidence given in the Kurma Parana and Padma Purdna, some learned persons suggest that one should offer oblations to the demigods only once, before performing his sandhya-updsana.

A godless person cannot become purified even if he bathes in all the holy rivers and uses clay and cow dung during his entire life. Does a fisherman become purified by staying in the water the whole day? Similarly, an athiest cannot become purified even if he bathes hundreds of time.

Only a person whose hands, legs, speech, and mind are fully under control and who is endowed with spiritual knowledge, austerity, and fame is able to achieve the result of bathing in a holy place. Five kinds of people—the faithless, sinners, atheists, the suspicious, and those who are argumentative cannot obtain any benefit by bathing in a holy place.

snātvā śrī-kṛṣṇa-caitanya-nāma-tīrthottame sakṛt |
nityāśuciḥ śucīndraḥ san sva-dharmaṁ vaktum arhati

By bathing only once in the most sacred holy place in the form of chanting the holy name of Sri Krsna Caitanya, even a most impure person becomes counted as one of the exalted personalities and becomes qualified to preach religious principles.

HBV 4.2

After completing one's bath and offering of oblations, one should first offer his obeisances to his worshipable Lord and then to his spiritual master and other elderly persons, except those who may be out collecting flowers, wood for sacrifice, kusa grass, or water and thus are away from home.

After performing dcamana and other duties, one should clean the Lord's temple room. Thereafter, while meditating upon the Deity, the devotee should surrender himself to the Lord while chanting the glories of His holy names and transcendental qualities. Afterwards, one should mix cow dung, pure clay, and water and then smear it on the floor of the temple. When this is finished, one should sprinkle water mixed with cow dung in the temple courtyard.

One should consider oneself to be My humble servant, without duplicity, and thus should help to clean the temple, which is My home. First one should sweep and dust thoroughly, and then one should further cleanse with water and cow dung. Having dried the temple, one should sprinkle scented water and decorate the temple with mandaias. O n e should thus act just like My servant.

O mother Earth, a person will enjoy blissful life in Sakadvlpa for as many thousands of years as he strokes the ground with his broom while sweeping. Thereafter, he will be born as My devotee and become endowed with religiosity, purity, devotion, and freedom from offenses. After enjoying life in Sakadvlpa, he will first go to heaven and enjoy the association of celestial women in the Nandana-kanana garden. Thereafter, when he again attains a human birth, he will become fixed in My devotional service after giving up all types of material attachment, and then rerturn to My transcendental abode.

A large quantity of rice paddy and cloth should be purified by means of sprinkling water. A small quantity should be soaked in water. Leather goods, as well as things made of bamboo and cane, should be purified the same way as cloth, which was previously described. Purification of vegetables, roots, and fruit should be done in the same way as rice paddy. Grass, wood, and straw become purified by sprinkling water on them. One's house is purified by sweeping and mopping, and clay pots are purified by heating them on a fire.

Ghee and oil should be purified by heating them on the fire. Milk products should be purified by sprinkling water on their containers. By removing the contaminated portion, yogurt and condensed milk can be purified. If ghee is solid then the same procedure can be applied, and if it is liquid, it can be purified by washing the entire container with water. If a container is contaminated, it can be purified simply by replacing it. One should meditate on Lord Vasudeva, who is situated within one's heart, who is the form of one's worshipable mantra, whose eyes are just like blooming lotus flowers, and who is as brilliant as countless suns. The Lord has four arms in which He holds a conch, disc, club, and lotus. He is dressed in yellow garments, His complexion is blackish, and His face appears peaceful and most pleasing. While looking into His eyes, it appears that He is ready to award a benediction. His limbs are smeared with sandalwood paste and He wears an enchanting smile upon his face. His ears are adorned with fish-shaped jeweled earrings. He is decorated with a garland of forest flowers. Great sages, such as Narada, are constantly engaged in worshiping Him. He is decorated with armlets and bracelets. His golden crown shines brightly. His entire body is supremely attractive and it is decorated with transcendental ornaments. One should meditate upon how the Ganges, which emanated from the Lord's lotus feet, falls directly on one's head and enters within his body. As a result, his entire body is being purified. If an initiated person meditates on the Supreme Lord in this way, within a short while, he will become as pure as crystal. It is said that this process of sndna is better than all the other processess of bathing. While bathing, one should remember Lord Narayana and glorify Him.

A person without foresight who bathes on the tenth day of the waning moon, without appling oil to his body, becomes bereft of a long duration of life, good intelligence, fame, and wealth. A person who. due to ignorance, massages his body with oil on the first day, sixth day, new moon day, fourth day, ninth day, or fourteenth day of the waning moon also loses the four above-mentioned assets. It is also prohibited to apply oil to the body on the fifteeth day, fourteenth day, seventh day, twelveth day, and sixth day of the waning moon, as well as on the day when the sun travels into a new sign of the zodiac.

If a brdhmana passes stool or urine after applying oil or ghee to his body, he should purifiy himself by fasting for twenty-four hours and then eating five kinds of milk products—milk, yogurt, ghee, cow's urine and cow dung. Thereafter, he should bathe and perform the agahmarsana ritual, in which one sips a small quanity of water from his palm while his nose is placed within the water. This should be followed by another bath, using the water that has washed the feet of his spiritual master and other elderly persons. Finally, he should bathe once again by pouring water mixed with tulasl on his body with a conch shell.

By bathing daily after smearing one's body with clay from the root of a tulasi plant, a devotee achieves the result of having ten ritualistic baths after the performance of horse sacrifices. Learned persons know that there is no difference between ordinary water mixed with tulasi leaves and Ganges water. One who daily puts water mixed with tulasi on his head attains the result of bathing in the Ganges. There is no doubt that by carrying water mixed with tulasi on one's head, a person achieves the result of bathing in all the holy places. One should place the water mixed with tulasi that has washed the lotus feet of the Supreme Lord and kept in a copper container in a conch shell and pour it on his head while chanting the mula-mantra.

Wool and cloth made from sheep's hair should be purified by exposing them to the air, fire, sunlight, or moonlight. If blankets made of sheep's hair are touched by semina, or a dead body, they do not become impure. Clothes made of sheep's hair—although torn, burnt, or patched—always remain pure. It is the duty of a human being to perform the srdddha ceremony while wearing clothes made of sheep's hair. If one does this, his srdddha performance is considered to be equal to a irdddha performed at Gaya. The performer attains inexhaustible piety by satisfying the forefathers.

A person who performs any activity, such as worshiping the Deities, without putting on tilaka achieves no tangible benefit. There is no doubt about this. Know for certain that a person who performs his sandhya rituals without wearing tilaka is actually demoniac and surely will traverse the path to hell.

A person should not wear crooked tilaka even if he is about to die, nor should he chant any names other than the holy names of Narayana. A Vaisnava should honor the remnants of Lord Visnu's flower garlands, insence, am! sandalwood paste. He should wear Vaisnava tilaka, using gopl-candana, if available.

Learned persons should know that that sastra enjoins that brahmanas and devotees wear Vaisnava tilaka whereas others may wear three-lined tilaka. If one sees or touches a brdhmana wearing three-lined tilaka (rather than Vaisnava tilaka), he should immediately bathe with his clothes on. A Vaisnava should not wear three-lined tilaka because this does not please Lord Hari.

just by seeing a brdhmana decorated with tilaka, one becomes liberated from all sinful reactions. Even by remembering the name of that person with devotion, one obtains the result of giving all kinds of charity. The forefathers of a person who at the time of performing the srdddha ceremony feeds a brdhmana decorated with tilaka becomes fully satisfied for millions of kalpas. There is no doubt about this. O n e who performs the srdddha ceremony after putting on tilaka later resides in Vaikuntha for thousands of kalpas. Any activity, including the performance of sacrifice, the giving of charity, the performance of austerities, or the chanting of mantras that is done after decorating the body with tilaka certainly yields unlimited piety as the result.

According to learned opinion, black tilaka awards one peace of mind; red tilaka helps one to control others; yellow tilaka gives one wealth; and white tilaka is auspicious and awards liberation. Round tilaka, crooked tilaka, tilaka without a space between the two parallel lines, short tilaka, tilaka that is too long, thin tilaka, messy tilaka, tilaka with the upper ends joined, tilaka in the wrong place, old and dirty tilaka, tilaka having a bad odor, tilaka applied with the left hand, and tilaka applied by some means other than using the prescribed finger are all useless. One should begin applying tilaka from the tip of the nose and go up to the top of the forehead, using a suitable clay. The tip of the nose actually means three-quarters of the way down from the bridge of the nose. One should form two parallel lines, beginning from the middle of the eyebrows and moving upwards.

Holy places, such a the Ganga, Gaya, Kuruksetra, Prayaga, and Puskara constantly remain present within the body of a devotee who habitually decorates himself with drawings of lotus flowers. Know for certain that the confluence of the Ganga, Yamuna, and Sarasvatl is present within a devotee's left arm that is decorated with the drawing of a club. If a devotee's left arm is decorated with a club, and a disc below the club, it is to be understood that Sri Krsna and the entire three worlds are present there. Within the body of a devotee who decorates himself with drawings of the Sudarsana cakra, the three sacrificial fires, the three controlling deities of the three modes of material nature, and the three steps of Lord Visnu are always present.

One should not fail to wear tulasl beads and especially, amalakl beads. This practice destroys all sinful reactions and awards one success in religiosity, economic development and sense gratification.

The spiritual master should be considered to be directly the Supreme Lord because he gives transcendental knowledge for enlightenment. An ignorant person is called a child, and a person who initiates one into the chanting of a mantra is considered to be a father. Leaned persons say that someone devoid of knowledge is as good as a child, and someone who enlightens others by imparting mantras to them is like a father. The spiritual master is Brahma, the spiritual master is Visnu, the spiritual master is Siva, and the spiritual master is a representative of the Supreme Lord. Therefore, one should faithfully worship the spiritual master with genuine devotion.

One must always offer respect to his spiritual master, worship him, and invite him to one's house, even if the spiritual master beats him, curses him, opposes him, or becomes angry with him. (The word guravah is plural, which means there can be many spiritual masters, as described in the Kurma Purana as follows: The teacher of Vedic literature, one's father, one's elder brother, the king, a maternal uncle, the father-in-law, one who recites the Puranas, a grandfather, one who is superior in terms of varna, and one's paternal uncle are all fit to be referred to as elderly, respectable spiritual masters.)

Those who reject an authorized spiritual master who comes in disciplic succession are certainly most ungrateful. When such persons die, even carnivorous animals and birds refuse to eat thier flesh. One who is rejected by his spiritual master is automatically rejected by the Supreme Lord, Sri Hari. As a result, his inteligence becomes polluted and he begins to display great arrogance. Those who are the lowest among mankind, after formally accepting a spiritual master, reject him out of illusion. Such persons certainly rot in hellish conditions for millions of kalpas.

All of the piety of a person who commits sinful activities while acting in a rebellious manner toward his spiritual master transforms into sin. Therefore, an intelligent person should first worship his spiritual master while treating him as nondifferent from Sri Krsna. Indeed, he should offer obeisances to him and worship him at least three times a day.

śrī-caitanya-prabhuṁ vande bālo'pi yad-anugrahāt |
taren nānā-mata-grāha-vyāptaṁ pūjā-kramārṇavam

I worship Srl Caitanya Mahaprabhu, by whose mercy even an ignorant person can surpass, by means of worshiping the Lord, the ocean of conclusive truth that is filled with formidable aquatic animals, such as crocodiles, in the form of unauthorised opinions.

श्रीमद्-गोपाल-देवस्याष्टादशाक्षर-यन्त्रतः ।

śrīmad-gopāla-devasyāṣṭādaśākṣara-yantrataḥ |
likhyate'rcā-vidhir gūḍhaḥ krama-dīpikayekṣitaḥ

Now, the process of Deity worship, accoding to the opinion of Krama- dlpikd, while following the prescribed rules while chanting the eighteen- syllable mantra of Srl Gopaladeva, is being described.

HBV 5.3

सदैव पूज्यो'तो लेख्यः प्राय आगमिको विधिः

āgamoktena mārgeṇa bhagavān brāhmaṇair api |
sadaiva pūjyo'to lekhyaḥ prāya āgamiko vidhiḥ

Brahmanas should always engage in Deity worship according to the rules and regulations prescribed in the tantras. In this book, the process of Deity worship will be described mostly according to the opinion of the tantras.

HBV 5.4

तथा च विष्णु-यामले—
कृते श्रुत्य्-उक्त-मार्गः स्यात् त्रेताया स्मृति-भावितः ।

kṛte śruty-ukta-mārgaḥ syāt tretāyāṁ smṛti-bhāvitaḥ |
dvāpare tu purāṇoktaḥ kalāv āgama-sambhavaḥ

In the Satya-yuga, rules and regulations were based on the Vedas. In the Treta-yuga, they were based on the smrti literature. In the Dvapara- yuga, they were based on the Puranas and in the Kali-yuga, they are based on the agamas.

HBV 5.5

अशुद्धाः शूद्राकल्पा हि ब्राह्मणाः कलि-सम्भवाः ।

aśuddhāḥ śūdrākalpā hi brāhmaṇāḥ kali-sambhavāḥ |
teṣām āgama-mārgeṇa śuddhir na śrauta-vartmanā

Brdhmanas born in Kali-yuga are impure, just like sudras. They should become purified by following the rules and regulations that are prescribed in the agamas because they cannot achieve the same result by following the Vedic rules and regulations.

श्री-कृष्ण-द्वार-देवेभ्यो दत्त्वा पाद्यादिक ततः ।

O n the two sides of the eastern gate, one should worship Canda and Pracanda. O n the two sides of the southern gate, one should worship Dhata and Vidhata. O n the two sides of the northern gate, one should worship Bala and Prabala, and on the two sides of the western gate, one should worship Jaya and Vijaya. After finishing this worship, one should worship the deity who is the protector of the temple, in front of the main entrance. Inside the doorway, one should worship Gariga and Yamuna. Then, by their sides, one should worship sankha-nidhi and padma-nidhi.

HBV 5.11–12

nairṛte vāstu-puruṣaṁ brahmāṇam api pūjayet |
āsanastho yajet tāṁs tān anyatra bhagavad-gṛhāt

Within the temple, one should worship the protecting deity and Lord Brahma in the southwest corner. One should then sit down a little distance from the Deity and worship the Lord's intimate associates.

HBV 5.16

तत्-पूजामन्त्रश् चोक्तः— प्रणवादि-चतुर्थ्य्-अन्त देव-नाम नमो'न्तकम् ।

tat-pūjāmantraś coktaḥ—praṇavādi-caturthy-antaṁ deva-nāma namo'ntakam |
pūjā-mantram idaṁ proktaṁ sarvatrārcana-karmaṇi iti |

The mantra to be chanted while worshiping the Lord's associates begins with orh, followed by the name of the associate, ending in the fourth dative case. The mantra should conclude with the word namah.

अथ कृष्णाग्रतस् तिष्ठन् कृत्वा दिग्-बन्धन क्षिपेत् ।

•5 40 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA Containers can be of various shapes, colors and designs. They can be in the shape of a lotus. They can be white like a conch shell, blue like a blue lotus flower, or any other pleasing color. They can be made of jewels or other valuable materials. The main consideration is that containers should look good and be easily available. By offering arghya in a gold container, one achieves his desired benediction. When it is offered in a silver container, one's duration of life increases and one achieves auspiciousness. When it is offered in a copper container, one achieves good fortune, and when it is offered in a clay pot, one achieves piety.

Although devotees may offer Me gold, silver, or bell metal pots, pots made of copper are My favorite. Copper is the most pure among all pure objects, the most auspicious among all auspicious things, and the most purifying because it destroys one's material bondage. My devotees, being always inclined to worship Me, should not fail to use pots made of copper.

Water, milk, kusa grass, yogurt, uncooked white rice, sesame seeds, barley and white mustard seeds—these eight ingredients are combined to make arghya. To make pddya, four ingredients are used—a lotus, durvd grass, black rice paddy, and tulasl. Learned personalities have stated that nutmeg, cloves, kakkola, and water are the ingredients of dcamaniya. Madhuparka consists of the following five ingredients—yogurt, milk, ghee, honey, and sugar.

To remove all inpediments, one should chant the mantra beginning with apsarapantu and ending with sivdjnayd: May all the ghosts who reside on earth be vanquished. May all the evil spirits who create obstacles on the path of auspicious activitives be destroyed by the order of their master, Lord Siva. Threafter, one should remove the obstacles arising from the earth by kicking the ground three times with his left foot while chanting, astraya phat. One should also chant this mantra to drive away obstacles in the sky. Next, one should chant the mula-mantra and meditate on the transcendental reality. With the help of that vision, he should eliminate all metaphysical obstacles.

The five gross material elements, which are included in the twenty- five elements born from material nature, are all related to the Supreme Lord. For this reason, it must be concluded that the living entities are parts and parcels of the Supreme Lord. The Supreme Lord is the cause and the living entities are the effect. Thinking in this way is called bhuta- suddhi, or purifying one's existence.

Prdndydma is equal to ail kinds of austerities, vows, methods of regulating the mind and senses, and the giving of one thousand cows in charity. The result one obtains by maintaining himself on only a few drops of water for one hundred years can be achieved by practicing prdndydma. O best among the vaisyas, all types of sinful reactions—be they grave, medium, or mild—can at once be vanquished by practicing prdndydma.

After performing the nyasa on one's head, while chanting orh, the devotee should perform the nyasa of five syllables of the eighteen-syllable mantra on the eyes, mouth, anus and legs. Then, he should perform the nyasa of those five syllables around his entire body. Some authorities have recommended that one perform this by adding namah at the end of each syllable. One should then meditate on the desire trees of Vrndavana. The fresh twigs of the desire trees can be compared to coral, the leaves can be compared to the blue sapphire, the buds can be compared to diamonds and pearls, and the fruit can be compared to rubies. These desire trees are tall and strong and they fulfill the desires of everyone. All of the seasons are eternally present in Vrndavana and that is why all kinds of seasonal flowers are continually available.

A sober devotee should give up all lethargy and begin to meditate on the transcendental land of Vrndavana which is made of cintamani stone. The land of Vrndavana is as brilliant as the rising sun and it decorated with golden columns, jewels, and raised platforms. The entire scene sparkles because of the pollen that has fallen from the trees. There is no place in Vrndavana for the six waves of the material ocean—hunger, thirst, lamentation, illusion, old age, and death.

Narada Muni has a stringed instrument called the vlnd. He plays it very melodically and thereby never fails to please Sri Krsna.

Now I shall describe the process of meditation that relieves one of all sinful reactions. Sri Krsna's complexion is blackish and He is dressed in yellow garments. His eyes are reddish, like a pink lotus flower. His palms, lotus feet, lips, and nails are also reddish. His form is the personification of all auspiciousness. His chest is illuminated by the effulgence emanating from the pearl necklace hanging around His neck, as well as the jewels of His ornaments, especially the Kaustubha gem. His crown is bedecked with numerous jewels that also radiate a transcendental effulgence. He is decorated with a necklace, armlets, bangles and earrings. The mark of Srlvatsa on His chest, and the beautiful anklets on His lotus feet enhance His beauty. He wears jeweled ornaments, a gorgeous waistband, and many rings. His head is bedecked with a peacock feather and He is decorated with a garland of forest flowers and a garland of kadamba flowers. All in all, He appears like the blue sky decorated with a full moon and a host of stars.

Sri Krsna is surrounded by hundreds of exquisitely beautiful cowherd girls, who have descended from the heavenly planets. He is full of auspicious attributes and His beauty is most enchanting. He always engages in increasing the happiness of the cowherd men and women of Vraja. The cows and calves surround Him, licking His transcendental body. The Siddhas, Gandharvas, Yaksas, Apsaras, birds, demigods, demons, all kinds of moving and non-moving living entities, Pannagas, beasts, and Vidyadharas gaze at Him with feelings of awe and reverence. The most intelligent Narada Muni, Vasistha, Visvamitra, Parasara, Vyasadeva, Bhrgu, Angira, Daksa, Saunaka, Atri, Kapila, and indeed, all of the best of sages who reside in Brahmaloka, as well as countless other great personalities, have come and surrounded Him on all sides. One should meditate on Sri Krsna in this manner, throughout the day and night.

Then, while chanting mam, one should worship Agnideva as being present in the stand. While chanting am, he should worship Suryadeva as being present in the conch shell, and while chanting urn, he should worship Candradeva as being present in the water. After this, one should invoke the holy rivers by chanting the mantra beginning with gange ca yamune. O n e should display the ankusa-mudrd while invoking the holy rivers from the sun, into the water. Next, one should invite Sri Govinda to appear from his lotus-like heart, while displaying the gdlini-mudrd and chanting sikhdyai vasat. After that, one should look into the water while chanting netrabhya vausat and then cover the water with both hands while chanting kavacaya hum. Then, the nydsa should be performed on the water while chanting the mula-mantra. The water should be transformed into nectar by purifying all directions while chanting the astra-mantra and displaying the dhenu-mudrd. One should mix sandalwood paste into the water and chant the amrta-blja mantra twelve times, followed by once again chanting the mantra, soma mandalaya sodasa kaldtmane namah. Afterwards, one should protect the water with a display of the cakra-mudrd and cover it with the matsya-mudrd. Finally, one should hold the conch shell, touch the water with a bunch of kusa grass, and chant the miila-mantra eight time over the water.

O Supreme Lord! O my master, please give me permission to engage in Your external worship. After praying like this, one should begin worshiping the Lord. There are many forms of the Lord, such as the salagrdma-sild and the Deity, so that the devotee can worship the Lord externally.

O saintly Uddhava, please know that you may worship Me in the sun, fire, brdhmanas, cows, Vaisnavas, sky, wind, water, earth, individual soul and all living entities.

FIFTH VILAS A ,QQ My dear Uddhava, one should worship Me within the sun by chanting selected Vedic mantras and by performing worship and offering obeisances. One may worship Me within fire by offering oblations of ghee, and one may worship Me among the brdhmanas by respectfully receiving them as guests, even when uninvited. I can be worshiped within the cows by offerings of grass and other suitable grains and paraphernalia for the pleasure and health of the cows, and one may worship Me within the Vaisnavas by offering loving friendship to them and honoring them in all respects. Through steady meditation I am worshiped within the inner space of the heart, and within the air I can be worshiped by knowledge that prdna, the life air, is the chief among elements. I am worshiped within water by offerings of water itself, along with other elements such as flowers and tulasi leaves, and one may worship Me within the earth by proper application of confidential seed mantras. One may worship Me within the individual living entity by offering food and other enjoyable substances, and one may worship Me within all living entities by seeing the Supersoul within all of them, thus maintaining equal vision. Thus, in the previously mentioned places of worship and according to the processes I have described, one should meditate on My peaceful, transcendental form with four arms holding a conchshell, Sudarsana disc, club and lotus flower. In this way, one should worship Me with fixed attention.

The Deity form of the Lord, who is the shelter of all living entities, can be established in two ways: temporarily or permanently. But a permanent Deity, having been called, can never be sent away, My dear Uddhava. The Deity that is temporarily established can optionally be called forth and sent away, but these two rituals should always be performed when the Deity is traced upon the ground. Bathing should be done with water except if the Deity is made of clay, paint or wood, in which cases a thorough cleansing without water is enjoined.

O vaisya, even without visiting holy places, giving charity, performing austerities, and accumulating knowledge, human beings can become eligible for liberation simply by worshiping the salagrama-sila with love and devotion. If the most sinful people worship Lord Acyuta in His form as the salagrama-sila then they can be relieved from being born among the animals or insects, or in other hellish conditions, as well as from suffering within the womb. I assure you that if a person who has been initiated and thus has received a bona-fide mantra worships Me with offerings in My form as the salagrama-sila, he will be transferred to My supreme abode.

Those who do not offer their obeisances to Lord Vasudeva, being puffed up with the mentality that they are my (Lord Siva's) devotees, are most sinful. You should know for certain that they are not really my devotees

My dear son, I always reside in the sdlagrama-sila. Being pleased by my devotional service, the Supreme Personality of Godhead has awarded me His residence.

na kṛtaṁ martya-loke yaiḥ śālagrāma-śilārcanam

The result one achieves by worshiping me with thousands of millions of lotus flowers is multiplied ten million times when he worships the sdlagrama-sila. I feel embarrassed to accept the adoration offered to me by those who worship the sdlagrama-sila.

HBV 5.397

शालग्राम-शिलाग्रे तु यः करोति ममार्चनम् । तेनार्चितो'ह सतत युगानाम् एकवि शतिम्

śālagrāma-śilāgre tu yaḥ karoti mamārcanam |

kim arcitair liṅga-śatair viṣṇu-bhakti-vivarjitaiḥ |
śālagrāma-śilā-bimbaṁ nārcitaṁ yadi putraka

O child, those who do not worship the sdlagrama-sild are devoid of devotional service to Lord Visnu. As such, they receive no benefit, even after worshiping one hundred siva-lingas.

HBV 5.399

It is impossible to estimate how much happiness the forefathers experience when they are offered oblations, even once, in front of the sdlagrdma-sild. All kinds of piety have a limit but, my dear son, no one can estimate the fruit of worshiping the sdlagrdma-sild.

FIFTH VILAS A AYI

यो ददाति शिला विष्णोः शालग्राम-समुद्भवाम् । yo dadāti śilāṁ viṣṇoḥ śālagrāma-samudbhavām |

viprāya viṣṇu-bhaktāya teneṣṭaṁ bahubhiḥ makhaiḥ

One who gives a sdlagrdma-sild in charity to a qualified brdhmana who is engaged in the devotional service of Lord Visnu attains the result of performing many sacrifices.

HBV 5.408

(अत्र-प्रभृति श्लोका आकरे न दृश्यन्ते) mānuṣye durlabhā loke śālagrāmodbhavā śilā |

prāpyate na vinā puṇyaiḥ kali-kāle viśeṣataḥ

Sdlagrdma-silds are very rarely seen in this world. Unless one is very fortunate or pious, he cannot possess a sdlagrdma-sild, especially in this age of Kali.

HBV 5.409

स धन्यः पुरुषो लोके सफलं तस्य जीवितम् ।

kāle vā yadi vākāle śālagrāma-śilārcanam |
bhaktyā vā yadi vābhaktyā yaḥ karoti sa puṇya-bhāk

Whether at a proper time or at an improper time—whether with devotion or without devotion—if a person simply worships the sdlagrdma- sild, he achieves piety.

HBV 5.412

द्वेषेणापि च लोभेन दम्भेन कपटेन वा ।

Simply by having darsana of the sdlagrdma-sild, even if out of greed, envy, pride, duplicity, or any other such motive, a person becomes freed from all sinful reactions.

अशुचिर् वा दुराचारः सत्य-शौच-विवर्जितः ।

The result one obtains by devotedly giving a fixed quantity of sesame seeds in charity every day can be achieved simply by worshiping the sdlagrdma-sild. My dear son, even a small quantity of leaves, flowers, fruit, water, roots, durbd grass, or rice paddy offered to the sdlagrdma-sild is accepted as being as big as Mount Sumeru. By worshiping the sdlagrdma-sild, even those who are unfamiliar with the prescribed rules and regulations, and who know nothing of the prescribed rituals or mantras, achieve the benefit as stated in the revealed scriptures.

One who travels, carrying a sdlagrdma-sild on his shoulder, is considered to be carrying the entire three worlds, along with all moving and non-moving living entities. If those who are guilty of killing a brdhmana, or comitting other grave sins, worship the sdlagrdma-sild, they will quickly become relieved of all sinful reactions. One should not be overly concerned about the process of worship, the chanting of mantras, meditation, the offering of prayers, or the ingredients for worship while worshiping the sdlagrdma-iild.

An area of twenty-four miles around the place where the salagrdma- sila is worshiped becomes transformed into a holy tirtha. As such, all pious activities, including the giving of charity, chanting of mantras, and performance of fire sacrifices that are executed in this area yield ten million times greater results. A person who performs the srdddha ceremony to his forefathers by worshiping the salagrdma-sila ensures that his forefathers joyfully live in the planets of the demigods for one hundred kalpas. If a fallen person who was born in Klkata-desa gives up his material body within two miles of a place where the salagrdma-sila is being worshiped, he attains Vaikuntha-loka in the spiritual sky.

If those who desire liberation are not satisfied by worshiping the Lord in any of these forms, they should worship Lord Vasudeva as the sdlagrdma-sild adorned with markings of cakras.

446 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA O vaisya, the sdlagrdma-sild form of Lord Visnu frees one from sinful reactions, awards one the results of piety, and ultimately liberates the worshiper from material bondage.

The extraordinary glories of the nrsimha-sild can be understood as follows—a tulasl leaf offered to His lotus feet destroys the sin of killing a brdhmana, water that has washed His lotus feet nullifies the sin of stealing, and His remnants of food destroy the sins of drinking wine and having intimate relations with the wife of one's spiritual master. By remembering Him, and associating with His devotees, one becomes delivered from the fault of associating with the above-mentioned sinners.

For the benefit of those who desire to worship Lord Krsna's enchanting torm, which is like a festival for the residents of Gokula, the process of Deity worship will now be described, by the mercy of Sri Krsna Caitanya. (The salagrama-sild is the direct appearance of the Lord and is thus considered to be the best form to worship. Still, due to its extraordinary beauty and sweetness, the devotees are attracted to His personal form, as manifested by the Deity. In consideration of this, the author will now describe the procedures for Deity worship.)

There are two kinds of Deities—the self-manifested Deity, and the installed Deity. Sri Krsna's personal appearance is the self-manifested Deity. When the Deity is manifested by the efforts of His devotees, He is known as installed.

Hear now with attention as I reveal to you the understanding of Lord Hari's worship. There are two categories of forms of the Supreme Lord—the self-manifested and the installed. To make the Deity of Lord Hari from clay, stone, wood, or metal and then invoke life into the Deity by following the rules and regulations that are prescribed in the srutis, smrtis, and tantras is called the installed form of the Supreme Lord. When the Supreme Lord, Sri Visnu, personally appears in this world and resides in a stone or wooden form—that is referred to as the Lord's self-manifested form. Because the self- manifested form of the Lord is rarely seen in this world, Vaisnavas should duly install the Deity and then continue to worship Him with faith and devotion.

By worshiping the Deity of the Supreme Lord, the devotee not only delivers his entire family but he also delivers the entire world. Such worship awards him the benefit of performing fire sacrifices. The Deity gives the worshiper whatever he desires, just like a wish-fulfilling tree. As such, there is nothing that remains unobtained by him.

One should bathe the Deities that are made of stone or metal by washing them with water mixed with perfume and sandalwood paste. Other Deities, which are made of clay, wood, or by painting, etc. should be bathed by chanting the mula-mantra.

One should touch the Deity's heart and chant his worshipable mantra eight times. This will help one to purify himself. One can also purify oneself by steadying his heart. There are four kinds of purification—the two mentioned in this verse, as well as the purification of paraphernalia and place that were described previously.

evaṁ ṣaṭ śuddhayaḥ puṇyāḥ sampradāyānusārataḥ

One should purify flowers and rice paddy by chanting mantras. One should bathe the Deity by washing Him with water mixed with sandalwood paste. After purifying one's self, one should purify the altar. In this regard, some people recommend that a devotee should purify his heart and the mantra he chants. Thus, according to the rules laid down by the various sampraddyas, there are a total of six kinds of purification. A Vaisnava should follow all of these procedures while keepng the rules and regulations of his sampradaya intact.

One should take a copper plate, or sheet, and smear it with sandalwood paste. One should then draw four gates at the four corners. After that, one should engrave, or paint, a sixteen-petal lotus flower, surrounded by eight leaves. The lotus should be enclosed by three circles and it should have a stem. After preparing a yantra in this way, one sholuld worship it properly.

In the middle of the pitha, one should worship prakrti, ddhdrasakti, Kurma, Ananta, the earth, the ocean of milk, Svetadvipa, the jeweled altar, and the desire trees. In the four corners—dharma, jnana, vairdgya, and aisvarya should be worshiped. In the four directions—adharma, ajnana, avairagya, and anaisvarya should be worshiped. Once again, in the middle of the pitha, one should worship Ananta, Padma, Surya, Candra, Agni, goodness, passion, ignorance, the soul, the Supersoul, and the conscience. The eight energies, such as Vimala, should be worshiped on the eight leaves. One should then worship the ninth energy, Anugraha. On top of the yantra, one should chant the pitha-mantra in the fourth dative case while vibrating om in the beginning and namah at t he e nd Fa example—om ddharasaktaye namah, om am suryamandaldya narmh, orhsah sattvaya namah, and om hrirh jndndtmane namah.

Then, one should offer padya, arghya, dcamaniya and madhuparka, one by one, while following the prescribed regulations. Next, one should apply scented oil to the body of the Deity and give Him a complete bath. The Deity should be dressed very nicely after His bath. Thereafter, one should worship the Deity by offering various articles. While worshiping the Deity, one should offer arghya on His head, padya at His lotus feet, dcamaniya in His mouth three times, followed by madhuparka. Some devotees offer flowers to the Lord after each of these offerings.

By offering an dsana to the Lord, one becomes qualified to attain shelter wherever he goes. By offering padya, one attains the result of giving cows in rity. O best of brdhmanas, those who offer arghya and dcamanlya become freed from all sinful reactions. A devotee who offers dcamanlya to the Lord with water from a holy place of pilgrimage becomes eligible to live in the heavenly planets after becoming freed from all sins. A person who offers yunaracamaniya to the Lord certainly remains aloof from the contamination : sinful activities.

One who makes a bell with a cakra, which is very dear to Lord Visnu, or with a symbol of Garuda, on top is supposed to have established the three worlds within that bell. One who hears the sound of a bell that is decorated with the symbol of a cakra at the time of death—even if he is a most sinful person—cannot be approached by the Yamadutas.

As a result of worshiping Me in a previous age, Brahma, the creator ol the universe, obtained the most auspicious Visnu-sahasra-ndma'Stotra. Later on, Narada received it from Brahma and then destributed it among the ascetics who were strictly celibate. O mighty-armed Arjuna, these sages distributed the VimU'Sahasra-ndma- stotra to the demigods. The Visnusahasra-ndmastotra was first propagated in this world by Vedavyasa.

One should faithfully and attentively recite the Bhagavad-gitd, which has emanated from the mouth of Lord Krsna. There is no need to study many Vedic literatures. The Bhagavad-gitd represents all scriptures, all of the demigods, and all religious principles. Therefore, one should carefully cultivate this great work. One who recites a chapter of the Bhagavad-gitd in front of a sdlagrama- sild becomes qualified to live in Brahmaloka for the duration of the reign of one thousand Manus. If a person recites the Bhagavad-gitd every day, he will remain unaffected by any sinful reactions, even if he repeatedly causes trouble to others and steals their property. One who recites the Bhagavad-gitd is considered to possess all kinds of knowledge and he obtains the merit of giving ten thousand cows in charity. One who recites the Bhagavad-gitd every day achieves the eternal abode of the Supreme Lord, which is beyond the jurisdiction of fear.

Now, let Me tell you of the good fortune a brahrnana attains by daily reciting the eleventh chapter of the Bhagavad-gita, which describes the Lord's universal form, and the tenth chapter of the Bhagavad-gita, which descirbes the opulence of the Lord. The piety one achieves by studying all of the Vedas, histories, and Puranas can be achieved simply by studying the Bhagavad-gita. A person who tegularly recites the chapters of the Bhagavad-gita containing the revelation of the universal form and the descriptions of the opulence of the Lord will become pleasing to everyone within the universe.

Lord Kesava forgives the thirty-two kinds of offenses committed by a person who recites the Bhagavad-gitd. One who copies the Bhagavad-gitd and donates it to a Vaisnava achieves the merit of worshiping Lord Hari. There is no doubt about this. To benefit the inhabitants of the three worlds. Lord Visnu abstracted the essence of the four Vedas and presented it in the form of the great literature, Bhagavad-gitd.

Those lowest of men who interpret the meaning of the Puranas lose the piety that they had accumulated in their previous lives. O best among the brdhmanas, the Puranas are the instructors of all religious principles. Those who imagine that the Puranas juggle words to attract ordinary people go to hell.

O foremost of brdhmanas, there is no doubt that one who desires to accumulate piety very easily in this life should hear the Purdnas with devotion. This will insure that the sinful reactions that were accumulated during their previous lives are destroyed. It will also attract their minds to hearing the Purdnas, more and more.

In Kali-yuga, when someone sees Lord Hari decorated with golden ornaments, seven generations of his family are delivered. Saintly persons have recommended that after offering food to the Lord, one should lavishly decorate Him with ornaments, sandalwood paste, and flowers. Thereafter, one should again ask the Lord for permission to continue worshiping Him. After offering Him His shoes, one should bring the Lord to the altar while singing and playing musical instruments—holding an umbrella over His head. One should then once again offer an dsana, gandha, and tulasi leaves, and display the gandha-mudrd.

There is no doubt that one who mixes all of the above-mentioned substances and then applies it to the body of Lord Janardana attains the merit of performing a horse sacrifice. One who decorates the body of the Lord with all the above-mentioned substances becomes capable of wandering about freely withing the fourteen worlds for as many years as there are molecules in those substances. By spraying the essence of musk on the hair of the Deity, one obtains the merit of performing any sacrifice he chooses.

After applying fragrant paste to the Lord of the universe, if a devotee fans Him with a fan made from a palm leaf, he becomes qualified to reside in the abode of Vayu. By fanning the Lord with a cdmara, one obtains the merit of donating one prastha of sesame seeds. O King, if one reverently fans Sri Hari with a fan made of cloth then none of his family members will have to fear the wrath of Yamaraja. O King, one who pleases Sri Krsna by faning Him with a cdmara will not fall down from the abode of Vayu. The Supreme Lord has personally praised such a devotee. However, one should only offer a fan during the summer. Devotees should not offer sandalwood paste to the Lord during the months of December and January because these two months are very cold. The Vedic injunction is that during winter, one should not offer any cooling substances to the Lord.

Flowers, such as kunkuma, bandhujiva, campaka that grows on a scaffold, zampaka that grows on land, yellow yuthika, kadamba and mango may be offered to Lord Janardana. One may also offer flowers such as mallika, kuvja, and madhavi; as well as flowers of the yuthika family, mallika family and kuvja family; and also kadamba, ketaki, pdtald, karnatuhali and other frgrant flowers. Some flowers are nice to offer simply because they are fragrant and some flowers are nice to offer simply because their color is enchanting. One may offer other fragrant and beautiful flowers that have not been mentioned. It is recommended that one should offer to the Deity seasonal flowers having a nice fragrance and color.

By offering flowers, one's poverty becomes relieved and his fortune is improved. Such a person also achieves wealth, fame, good health, auspiciousness, and wisdom. By offering flowers to the Lord, one attains the merit of performing an agnistoma sacrifice and thereafter, he goes to heaven. The Supreme Lord, who holds a disc and club in His hands, does not become as pleased by offerings of jewels and other valuable articles as when He is worshiped by the offering of the previously mentioned ten kinds of flowers.

Despite living in a crowded city, if a devotee maintains himself by begging alms, observing strict vows, and always worships Lord Madhusudana with offerings of leaves, flowers, roots, fruit, and buds collected from the forest—the Lord will certainly fulfill all of his desires. It is also a well-known tact that the Lord awards such a devotee the supreme destination, even if he does not ask for it. The supreme abode of Lord Visnu is that place where there is no anxiety or lamentation.

There were innumerable pious men who became Yaksas, Gandharvas, demigods, Vidyadharas, and Nagas in their next lives. O sinless one, it is not possible to estimate their number. Devotees should collect flowers very carefully every day. It is not possible to describe the merit one achieves by personally collecting flowers from the forest every day and then offering them to the Supreme Lord. O foremost of kings, a person who maintains himself on food that was collected by begging and personally picks flowers and offers them to Lord Kesava delivers one hundred generations of his family.

By offering jdtl flowers to Lord Krsna, one will happily reside among the Gandharvas. By offering eight jati flowers to the Supreme Lord, one will attain the merit of performing an agnistoma sacrifice. By offering one thousand jati flowers, one can transfer himself to whatever planet he likes. By worshiping the Lord while offering one hundred thousand jati flowers, one becomes eligible to reside in Svetadvipa. I could not even describe in one hundred years the merit a person attains by offering the Lord a garland made of jdtl flowers that are perfumed with camphor powder.

O king of birds, there has never been, nor will there ever be, a better flower than malati and a more auspicious day than Dvadasi. Narada has said that the offering of a single malati flower can please Lord Kesava more than even thousands of sacrifices. Lord Kesava happily resides in the leaves of malati plants.

104 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA O great bird, as a father becomes very happy upon seeing his son—Lord Hari, the enemy of the demons, becomes happy when he sees malati flowers in the hands of Vaisnavas. By offering beautiful malati flowers to the Lord, a devotee attains the transcendental destination that is free of all miseries and is never annihilated. Malati flowers are always pleasing to Lord Madhava. Lord Garudadhvaja indiscriminately awards a worshiper who offers malati flowers residence in His own abode.

By offering flowers to Lord Krsna with love and devotion, one achieves more merit than giving one hundred thousand gold coins in charity. By offering a garland of flowers to the Lord, one receives the merit of offering a single flower multiplied millions of times.

130 SRIHARI-BHAKTI-VILASA Mallikd flowers can be offered both during the day and at night. Sondali and Yuthikd flowers can be offered only at night. Nandyavarta flowers can be offered at midnight and malati flowers should be offered only in the morning. As far as other flowers are concerned, they can be offered only during the day. This is the opinion of some learned scholars who have vast knowledge of Deity worship.

Leaves, flowers and fruit that face downward while being offered are not pleasing to Lord Hari and so this will cause distress to the worshiper. One should always offer things to the Lord in a way that is pleasing to Him.

All kinds of tulasl, whether red or green, are dear to Sri Krsna, just as the Dvadasi of the waxing and waning moon are dear to Him. Jewels, such as the Kaustubha, can exhibit their pride only as long as tulasl leaves or manjaris are not available. In other words, such jewels have little value in front of tulasl.

156 SRIHARI-BHAKTI-VILASA Pleasing words spoken by Vrnda-devI are certainly in the mode of goodness, and her wrath is in the mode of ignorance. According to these two qualities of Vrnda, Lord Hari displays two different moods. This is the reason that tulasi has two different colors. Although blackish tulasi is certainly dear to Krsna, green tulasi is especially dear to Him.

One who worships Lord Hari three times every day with offerings of thousands of blue lotus flowers for one hundred years cannot obtain as much merit as can be achieved by worshiping the Lord with tulasi leaves. O learned one, among all flowers, the lotus flower is the best. A garland o{ tulasi leaves is millions of times better than a garland of lotus flowers. Simply by observing the worship of the Deity of Lord Kesava with tulasi leaves, a person becomes freed from the reactions to the sin of killing a brdhmana. What then can be said of the lesser sins committed by a person who worships the Supreme Lord, Hari, with tulasi leaves? Indeed, all of his sinful reactions are nullified.

Tulasl leaves offered on the head of Lord Madhava completely destroy all of the reactions to one's contemptible sinful activities. A person who devotedly cleanses the temple of Lord Hari three times a day by spinkling water mixed with tulasl leaves is freed from the reactions to all kinds of grave sins.

The fingers of those who pick tulasi leaves from their garden every day for the worship of the salagrdmasild are certainly glorious. The earth where tulasl plants grow is also glorious. Although it is stated in the smrti literature that one should not pick tulasi on the new moon day, full moon day, DvadasI, or Sunday—the devotees of Lord Visnu avoid picking tulasi only on DvadasI.

On the four sides of the Lord's altar, one should worship His associates— Vasudama, Sudama, Dama and Kinkini. While worshiping them, one should chant, om vasuddmaya namah.

तद्-बहिश् चाग्नि-कोणादौ केशरेष्व् आग्ग-देवताः ।

Outside the altar, one should worship the anga-devatds as being situated in the four corners while chanting the appropriate mantras that begin with their names. For examples—hrim hrdaydya namah, sirase svaha, and so on.

HBV 7.364–365

ततो बहिश् च पूर्वादि-दिग्-दलेष्व् अष्टसु प्रभोः ।

sunandā mitravindā ca sampūjyātha sulakṣaṇā |
jāmbavatī suśīlā ca tat-tad-dravyādi-bhūṣitā

Beyond the second circle, one should worship the eight principal queens of Lord Krsna as being situated in the eight petals of a lotus. They are Rukmini, Satyabhama, Nagnajiti, Sunanda, Mitravinda, Sulaksana, Jamvavati, and Susila. This is the third circle of the Lord's associates.

HBV 7.366–367

gopān gopīś ca tad-bhāva-trapayā dūrataḥ sthitāḥ |
vicitra-rūpa-veśādi-śobhamānān imān yajet

Thereafter, one should worship Vasudeva, Devaki, Nanda, Yasoda, Balarama, Subhadra, and the other cowherd inhabitants of Vraja as being very well dressed and situated on the eight leaves of the lotus. One should also worship the gopis as being situated a little distance from Lord Krsna, due of modesty. This is the fourth circle of associates of the Lord.

karṇikāyāṁ ca sampūjya mandāraṁ deva-pṛṣṭhataḥ

182 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA karnikdydnca sampujya manddrarh devaprsthatah Thereafter, one should worship the manddra tree in back of the Supreme Lord, followed by the five celestial desire trees that fulfill all desires. Beyond that, in the four corners, one should worship the santdna, parijata, kalpavrksa, and haricandana trees. This is the fifth circle of associates of the Lord.

तद् बहिश् चाष्ट-दिक्-पालान् स्व-स्व-दिक्ष्व् एव पूजयेत् ।

nirṛty-ambu-payor madhye brahmāṇaṁ cendra-rudrayoḥ

Beyond that, one should worship the demigods, such as Indra, Agni, Yama, Nairta, Vayu, Varuna, Kuvera, Isana, Ananta (who is situated between Nairta and Varuna), and Brahma (who is situated between Indra and Rudra) while chanting the appropriate mantras. They are very nicely dressed and they should be worshiped along with their associates, weapons and carriers. This is the sixth circle of associates of the Lord.

ततो बहिश् चाष्ट-दिक्षु मौलि-स्थानात्म-लक्षणान् ।

yajed gadāṁ triśūlaṁ cakrābje tv adha-ūrdhvayoḥ

Beyond that, one should worship the principal associates of the Lord, along with their weapons and ornaments. These associates are situated in the eight directions. They are of various complexions and characteristics. Next, one should worship the vajra, sakti, danda, khadga, pasa, ankusa, club and triiiila in the eight directions, and the cakra and padma as being above and below, respectively.

विष्णु-धर्मोत्तरे—

visrwdharmmottare (In the Visnu-dharmottara it is stated) sankharh cakrarh gadam padmarh tomaram musalam halam anyadvapi hareh sastrarh smrtva papat pramucyate Just by remembering any of Lord Sri Hari's weapons, such as the sankha, cakra, gada, padma, plough, stick, or lance—one is freed from all sinful reactions. This is the seventh circle of associates of the Lord.

HBV 7.375

sarvānanda-pradaṁ hy etat saptāvaraṇa-pūjanam |
aśakto'ṅgendra-vajrādyam āvṛti-trayam arcayet

Worship of these seven circles of the Lord's associates awards one all kinds of happiness. If one is unable to worship all seven circles of associates then he should at least worship the three special associates—Ahga, Indra, and Vajra.

HBV 7.376

ईदृक् चैकान्तिभिर् ज्ञेय तत्-तत्-कामवता मतम् ।

anyathā gokule kṛṣṇa-deve tat-tad-asmabhavāt

184 SRIHARI-BHAKTI-VILASA The devotees of the Supreme Lord know that worship of these associates is particularly meant for those who desire to conquer their enemies or have another such motive. For those who have such a desire, it is impossible to have a connection with Krsna without the mercy of one of His associates, such as Rukmini.

HBV 7.377

एकान्तिभिस् तु राधाद्या यथा-ध्यान प्रभोः प्रियाः ।

ekāntibhis tu rādhādyā yathā-dhyānaṁ prabhoḥ priyāḥ |
prathamāvaraṇe pūjyāḥ kāle kṛṣṇāntikaṁ gatāḥ

The devotees of the Supreme Lord should first worship the His beloved associates, such as Sri Radha and the others in the first circle, while meditating on them. Although, out of shyness, they may stay some distance from the Lord—at the time of worship, they remain by His side.

tato brahmādayo devāḥ prāptā nīrājanotsave

Thereafter, one should worship the cowherd boys that are of the same age as Krsna. After that, one should worship the elderly cowherd men, such as Nanda, and the elderly cowherd women, such as Yasoda and Rohini. This should be followed by worship of the cows, calves, bulls, deer, and other animals. At the time of worshiping the Supreme Lord, one should not forget to worship the demigods, headed by Brahma.

kṛṣṇāya rocate'tyantaṁ tad eva ca satāṁ matam

One should worship Lord Balarama as being sometimes with Krsna and sometimes with mother Rohinl. Narada Muni should be worshiped as wandering about in jublilation nearby. In this way, one should engage in meditation and worship. Whatever mode of worship is suitable and pleasing to the devotees is approved by Sri Krsna and saintly persons.

186 SRIHARI'BHAKTI-VILASA Thereafter, one should worship the eight principal names of Krsna, while offering flowers. If one is unable to worship the Lord in the above- mentioned manner then he should worship these eight holy names of the Lord. This will award him the merit of ail kinds of worship.

Such a person becomes successful in life, just as one's eyes feel comfortable in an illuminated place. Now, hear about the piety of one who offers dipa to Lord Krsna on Ekadasi and Dvadasi during either the waxing or waning moon. Such a person becomes qualified to board a celestial airplane decorated with many lamps made of jewels, gold, and pearls.

O King, one should always offer a big ghee lamp to the Lord. On Dvadasi and the new moon day during the fortnight of the waning moon, such an offering awards one even greater merit. O King, on the Dvadasi of the waning moon and on the new moon day in the month of Asvin, one should offer a lamp having one hundred and eight wicks made of fresh, clean cotton and containing one hundred and eight palas of pure oil. Along with this offering, one should observe a fast and carefully control his senses.

Then, with his right hand, one should display the five prdnddi'mudrds while pronouncing each word in the fourth dative case, ending with svdhd. For example, prdndya svdhd, apdndya svdhd, and so on. (When one places the tips of the little finger, ring finger, and thumb together, that is called the prdna'mudra. When one places the tips of the index finger, middle finger, and thumb together, that is called the apdna- mudra. When one places the tips of the ring finger, middle finger and thumb together, that is called the vyana-mudrd. When one places the tips of the ring finger, middle finger, index finger, and thumb together, that is called the uddna-mudrd. When one places the tips of all five fingers together, that is called the samdna-mudrd.)

When devottes are chanting and dancing, no one should watch while sitting down. No one should stand before the Lord, or along with the dancing devotees, keeping his back to the Deities or the devotees. One should not walk through the assembled devotees in a disturbing manner. O foremost of kings, a person who watches a Vaisnava dancing in ecstatic love while sitting down will become a lame man in his subsequent births. Apart from devotees, those who obstruct the view of the Deities or His devotees will next be born as animals.

nārasiṁhe—
stotrair japaiś ca devāgre yaḥ stauti madhusūdanam |
sarva-pāpa-vinirmukto viṣṇu-lokam avāpnuyāt

A devotee who glorifies Lord Madhusudana with prayers and the chanting of mantras becomes freed from all sinful reactions and ultimately attains the abode of Lord Visnu.

hari-bhakti-sudhodaye—
stuvann ameya-māhātmyaṁ bhakti-grathita-ramya-vāk |
bhaved brahmādi-durlabhya-prabhu-kāruṇya-bhājanam

One who describes the unlimited glories of the Supreme Lord while offering prayers that were composed with pure devotion becomes qualified to receive the mercy of the Supreme Lord, which is rarely achieved, even by the demigods, headed by Brahma.

HBV 8.350

Even a fraction of the merit one receives by offering obeisances to Lord Narayana cannot be obtained by visiting hundreds of thousands of holy places. Even if one offers obeisances to Lord Hari, who carries a bow in His hand, with duplicity, all of his sinful reactions that had been accumulated during hundreds of previous lives are at once eradicated.

Religion, economic development and sense gratification—these are described in the Vedas as tri-varga, or three ways to salvation. Within these 298 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA three categories are education and self-realization; ritualistic ceremonies performed according to Vedic injunction; logic; the science of law and order; and the various means of earning one's livelihood. These are the external subject matters of study in the Vedas, and therefore I consider them material. However, I consider surrender to the lotus feet of Lord Visnu to be transcendental.

devakī-suta dehi me tava pāda-bhaktim acalām

O Krsna! O Rama! O Mukunda! O Vamana! O Vasudeva! O spiritual master of the universe! O Matsya! O Varaha! O Nrsimha! O Kurma! O Raghava! Please protect me and maintain me. O my Lord, who is worshiped by the demigods and the demons! O ocean of mercy! O son of Devaki! May You award me unflinching devotional service at Your lotus feet.

One should not enter the temple while seated on a palanquin or with shoes on his feet. One should not fail to observe the various festivals for the pleasure of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, such as Janmastami and Ratha-yatra. One should not avoid bowing down before the Deity. One should not enter the temple to worship the Lord without having washed one's hands and feet after eating. One should not enter the temple in a contaminated state. One should not bow down on one hand. One should not circumambulate in front of Sri Krsna. One should not spread his legs before the Deity. One should not sit before the Deity while holding his ankles, elbows, or knees. One should not lie down before the Deity of Krsna. One should not accept prasada before the Deity. One should never speak a lie before the Deity. One should not talk very loudly before the Deity. One should not talk with others before the Deity. One should not cry or howl before the Deity. One should not quarrel or fight before the Deity. One should not chastise anyone before the Deity. One should not be charitable to beggars before the Deity. One should not speak very harshly to others

EIGHTH VILAS A before the Deity. One should not wear a fur blanket before the Deity. One should not eulogize or praise anyone else before the Deity. One should not speak profanity before the Deity. One should not pass air before the Deity. One should not fail to worship the Deity according to one's means. One should not eat anything that is not offered first to Krsna. One should not fail to offer fresh fruit and grains to Krsna, according to the season. After food has been cooked, no one should be offered any of it unless it has first been offered to the Deity. One should not sit with his back toward the Deity. One should not offer obeisances silently to the spiritual master, or in other words, one should recite aloud the prayers to the spiritual master while offering obeisances. One should not fail to offer some praise in the presence of the spiritual master. One should not praise himself before the spiritual master. One should not deride the demigods before the Deity. These are the thirty-two sevdparddhas that should be avoided by Vaisnavas.

Lord Varaha had instructed the earth, saying that Vaisnavas should avoid these offenses. Those who fail to do so will fall down from their observance of religious principles and perpetually dwell in hell. Eating food given by a king is a grave offense. One should always avoid eating such food, even if he is starving. One should not touch the Deity in a dark room. One should not enter the temple without first making some sound. One should not offer flesh to the Deity. One should not enter the temple wearing shoes. One should not offer any food to the Deity that has been seen by dogs, or other lower animals. One should not break the silence while worshiping. One should not pass urine or evacuate while engaged in worshiping the Deities. One should not eat newly grown crops without first performing the sraddha ceremony. One should not offer incense without offering some flowers. Useless flowers that are without any fragrance should not be offered. One should not fail to brush his teeth very carefully every day. One should not enter the temple directly after having sexual intercourse. One should not touch a woman during her menstrual period. One should not enter the temple after touching a dead body. One should not enter the temple wearing red or blue garments, or garments that are unwashed. One should not enter the temple wearing dirty clothes or clothes that were borrowed. One should not enter the temple after seeing a dead body. One should not pass air within the temple. One should not become angry within the temple. One should not enter the temple after visiting a crematorium. One should not belch before the Deity and so, until one has fully digested his food, he should not enter the temple. One should not enter the temple after eating meat, fish, eggs, or kusumbha sak. One should not enter the Deity room or touch the Deity after having smeared oil over his body. One should not show disrespect to a scripture that teaches the supremacy of the Lord. One should not introduce any opposing scripture. One should not enter the temple after associating with a drunkard. One should not offer kusumbha sak to the Deity. One should not chew betel before the Deity. One should not offer kuruvaka and paldsa flowers to the Deity. One should not worship the Deity at an inapproriate time. One should not worship the Lord while sitting on the bare floor—one must have a sitting mat or carpet. One should not bathe the Deity while holding Him with his left hand. One should not offer old or wilted flowers to the Deity. One should not spit in the temple. One should not display pride within the temple. One should not decorate his forehead with three-lined tilaka. One should not beg flowers from others when he can collect them without doing so. One should not enter the temple without washing his hands and feet. One should not offer food that was cooked by a nondevotee. One should not worship the Deity in front of a nondevotee. One should not worship the Deity without first worshiping Ganapati. One should not worship the Deity after conversing with a tannic. One should not bathe the Deity with water that had been contaminated by the touch of his nails. One should not break the silence while worshiping, and one should not worship the Deity with a sweaty body.

An offender can become purified of his offenses by residing at saukara ttrtha while completely fasting and bathing in the Ganges if this penance is performed within one year from the time of commiting the offense. The same penance can be observed while residing at Mathura. Anyone who engages in the service of the Supreme Lord while residing in these two holy places is certainly pious. In fact, all of his offenses that were accumulated during his previous one thousand lifetimes can be atoned for in this way.

mukhe śirasi dehe tu viṣṇūttirnaṁ tu yo vahet |
tulasīṁ muni-śārdūla na tasya spṛśate kaliḥ

All sinful reactions and illnesses of a person become destroyed when he smears the remnants of Lord Visnu over his body. The contamination of Kali cannot affect a person who touches Lord Visnu's remnants to his head, mouth, and other parts of his body after removing them from the Deity. O sage, I have revealed this to you for your benefit.

yo vahet śirasā nityaṁ tulasīṁ viṣṇu-sevitāṁ

O foremost brahmana, all the sinful reactions that one may have accumulated during the previous four yugas are immediately nullified when 314 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA one touches the sanctified remnants of Lord Visnu to his head. There is no need for a person who is accustomed to touching to his head tulasl leaves that have been offered to Lord Visnu to bathe in the Ganges.

tulasīṁ dhārayed yo vai tasya puṇyam anantakam
aho-ratraṁ śire yasya tulasī viṣṇu-sevitā |
na sa lipyati pāpena padma-patram ivāmbhasā

There is no limit to the pious merit that is earned by a person who accepts a tulasl leaf that remained, day and night, on the lotus feet of Lord Visnu. No sin can contaminate a person whose head is adorned with a tulasl leaf that was offered to Lord Visnu, just as water cannot remain on a lotus leaf.

318 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA One should follow all the rules and regulations relating to the service of the Supreme Lord while worshiping Him in the temple. In one's house, however, one can worship Him according to one's capacity. The point to be noted here is that one should not break any vow that one has made in the course of his worship of the Lord.

One should bathe Lord Visnu by pouring ghee over Him and then applying sandalwood paste to His transcendental body. Then, one should offer white flowers, dress Him in white clothes with a chddara, and offer muktdphala, incense perfumed with camphor, milk, sweet rice, and a lamp with ghee wicks. This kind of worship awards all benediction to the devotee. It is certain that one who worships the Deity in this way will quickly get relief from all diseases. A distressed person will become happy and a prisoner will be freed. As a result of such worship, a criminal can avoid punishment by the king's men, and a traveler can wander about anywhere he likes without fear or danger.

dṛṣṭvā śaṅkhodakaṁ mūrdhni vidravanti diśo daśa

One who sprinkles on his head the water that had been kept in a conch shell and sanctified by Lord Krsna's auspicious glance becomes free from the fear of pain, distress, grief, and hellish conditions of life. Inauspicious planets, ghosts, hobgoblins, snakes, and demons run away after seeing water that had been kept in a conch shell being sprinkled on one's head.

By sprinkling on one's head the water that had been kept in a conch shell that was waved in circles above the head of Lord Hari during arati, one is liberated, by the Lord's mercy. All inauspicious elements flee from a temple complex if the water that was kept in a conch shell that had been offered to the Lord during arati is sprinkled on the assembled devotees.

The glories of the Lord's caranamrta have been widely known since time immemorial. People become purified by drinking caranamrta and they can cross beyond the ocean o{ material existence simply by touching it to their head. Caranamrta is like a gateway to heaven and it is fully transcendental, pure, worshipable, and glorious. One should always honor caranamrta. May caranamrta always be honored in this world, just like the nectar of heaven.

imaṁ mantraṁ samuccārya sarva-duṣṭa-grahāpaham |
prāśnīyāt prokṣayed dehaṁ putra-mitra-parigraham

One should drink caranamrta while chanting this mantra for it completely removes the bad influence of inauspicious planets. One should sprinkle caranamrta on his body and on the body of his son, friend, wife, and other relatives.

HBV 9.18

koṭi-tīrtha-sahasrais tu sevitaiḥ kiṁ prayojanam |
nityaṁ yadi pibet puṇyaṁ śālagrāma-śilā-jalam

There is no need to visit thousands of millions holy places of pilgrimage for a person who regularly drinks the sanctified water that bathed the sdlagrdma'Sila.

HBV 9.22

शालग्राम-शिला-तोय□ यः पिबेद् बिन्दुना समम् ।

śālagrāma-śilā-toyaṁ yaḥ pibed bindunā samam |
mātuḥ stanyaṁ punar naiva na pibed bhakti-bhāṅ naraḥ

Just by respectfully drinking a drop of water that bathed the sdlagrdma- sila, one's fear of having to drink his mother's milk again will vanish. In other words, such a person does not have to experience birth again in this material world.

Lord Hari's caranamrta is more sanctified than all the holy places of pilgrimage and it destroys the sinful reactions of killing millions of living entities. Simply by drinking caranamrta and sprinkling a few drops on one's head, a devotee can please all of the demigods. Know for certain that in Kali- yuga, drinking Lord Hari's caranamrta is the best atonement for all kinds of sinful activities.

The water of the River Sarasvati purifies a person after three days. The water of the Narmada purifies a person after seven weeks. The water of the Ganga purifies one immediately. The water of the Yamuna purifies a person who simply sees it. All these holy waters purify a person by seeing, by bathing, and by glorifying but in this age of Kali, Lord Hari's caranamrta purifies one who simply remembers it.

Drinking Lord Hari's caranamrta is hundreds of thousands of times more beneficial than worshiping ten million sivaAingas every day. It does not matter whether one is pure, impure, sinful, or most sinful—if he simply touches the caranamrta of Lord Visnu, he at once becomes purified. If the caranamrta of Lord Hari is sprinkled on one's head, mouth, and body at the time of death, he will not have to traverse the path to the abode of Yamaraja even if he had committed millions of sins. People who never gave charity, performed sacrifice, or worshiped the demigods can attain the supreme destination simply by drinking Lord Hari's caranamrta. Such a person need not bathe at Puskara in the month of Karttika, when the star, Krttika, is visible. What will he gain by bathing at the sacred place known as Pindaraka, which is situated at modern-day Ujjain, in the month of Vaisakha? Will a person who regularly drinks the Lord's cararidmrta achieve more merit by bathing at Prayaga in the month of Magna? The fact is—he already receives the merit of bathing at Prayaga every day. One who drinks the water that washed Lord Hari's lotus feet does not need to bathe in the Yamuna on the day of Utthana-dvadasl. What additional benefit will one who regularly drinks Lord Visnu's caranamrta achieve by relinquishing his body on the banks of the Ganga at Kasi? In other words, Lord Visnu's caranamrta awards one all types of benefit. Simply by the touch of Lord Visnu's lotus feet, the Ganga instantly became the deliverer of all those who remember her. Therefore, how can I properly glorify the greatness of Lord Visnu's caranamrta7. The blazing fire of the three-fold material miseries, which cannot be extinguished even by pouring all the water of the ocean on them, can be quickly extinguished just by a few drops of Lord Visnu's caranamrta.

Water that washed the lotus feet of the Supreme Lord is just like an amulet that cannot be penetrated by any weapon. It is the means for extinguishing the fire of material existence. Therefore, one should sprinkle Lord Visnu's caranamrta on the upper part of his body (above the navel). The demigods drink nectar once a month but drinking Lord Hari's caranamrta every day is considered to be drinking nectar daily.

By sprinkling Lord Visnu's caranamrta on their head and by drinking it, the members of all the varnas and dsramas, even ascetics, attain perfection. Let the person who desires to neutralize all the reactions to the sinful activities he had committed since birth drink the sdlagrdma-sild's caranamrta, which nullifies all sinful reactions.

The glories of Lord Visnu's carandmrta is loudly proclaimed in all scriptures. Even if one were able to count the waves of the ocean it would not be possible for him to estimate the glories of carandmrta. One should put carandmrta and tulasi in a conch shell and offer it to the Vaisnavas while chanting the appropriate mantra. Of course, one should himself not fail to drink the carandmrta.

That place where there is no dmalaki tree, where there is no Deity of Lord Visnu, where there is no forest of tulasi plants, and where there are no Vaisnavas is no better than a graveyard. What can Yamaraja and his messengers do to those who plant tulasi for the pleasure of Lord Kesava in the age of Kali? In other words, Yamaraja has no jurisdiction over such people.

cakra-pdninah O vaisya, a person who plants tulasi, who fulfills all desires and nullifies all sinful reactions, will never have to be punished by Yamaraja. The house where tulasi plants grow is as good as a holy place of pilgrimage. As such, the Yamadutas are not even allowed to approach such a house. A person who plants tulasi will happily reside in the heavenly planets for as many thousands of years as there are leaves and seeds on the plant. Just by smelling the sweet aroma of tulasi, the forefathers are enabled to ride on the back of Garuda and ascend to Vaikuntha.

O foremost vaisya, bathing in the Ganges, having the darsana of the River Narmada, and touching a tulasl leaf are considered equal in merit. By planting, maintaining, watering, seeing, and touching tulasl, all of the sinful reactions that one had accumulated by means of his body, mind, and speech are burnt to ashes.

O vaisya, by sowing a single tulasl plant, one recieves the same merit as one would obtain by planting one thousand mango trees or one hundred banyan trees. A devotee of Lord Visnu will reside in the abodes of the demigods for one hundred thousand yugas, simply by planting tulasl.

An intelligent person should never disrespect tulasi by considering her to be an ordinary plant. The sclagrama-Uld is a direct representation of Lord Vasudeva in Vaikuntha. In the same way, tulasi is a direct representation of Goddess Laksmi. By touching, seeing, and maintaining a tulasi plant, all of the reactions to even grave sins are destroyed.

Just as the daughter of King Janaka is very dear to Lord Ramacandra, the master of the three worlds—tulasi, the deliverer of all living entities, is very dear to Lord Visnu. Lord Ramacandra, along with Sita, remains present in a forest of tulasi plants that are surrounded by various flowering plants. O foremost sage, just as the land extending for two miles on either side of the Ganga is considered to be pure, the land that extends for two miles around a tulasi forest is also considered pure. Those who relinquish their material bodies near a tulasi plant avoid suffering the pangs of hellish life. In fact, they return to Vaikuntha in the spiritual sky.

360 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA O foremost of birds! O son of Vinata! A person who maintains a tulasi plant has actually made an arrangement for the deliverance of all living entities. O best of birds, I am telling you the truth that one who has planted a sacred tulasi tree in a garden, a forest, or at home, has performed an act as worthy as establishing his rule throughout the world.

By planting tulasi, who is very dear to Lord Hari, one obtains millions of times more benefit than by performing many sacrifices or donating a huge amount of wealth in charity, according to the prescribed rules and regulations. O King, those who offer tulasi leaves in the service of the Supreme Lord, and those who plant tulasi in a sanctified place, attain His eternal abode.

364 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA When one plants tulasi, Yamaraja has no choice but to wipe clean the record of his sinful activities.

Everything about tulasi is pure, including her leaves, flowers, fruit, wood, bark, branches, twigs, tender leaves, roots, and the clay from her roots. Brahmanas who perform sacrifice with tulasi wood obtain the merit of performing one hundred agnistoma sacrifices with each and every piece of wood offered. The food that is cooked on a tulasi wood fire and offered to Lord Kesava is like the Sumeru mountain. In other words, it is glorious.

tulasī-bhakṣaṇān mucyet śrutam etat purā hareḥ

Lord Hari has personally declared that even after committing thousands of sinful activities in the early part of his life, if one eats tulasl leaves, he will be freed from the reactions to all his sins.

HBV 9.219

After completing one's worship of Lord Krsna in the morning, those twice-born persons who belong to the three varrias, especially brdhrnanas, should carefully study devotional scriptures. In other words, bathing and worshiping the Lord should be done before studying the scriptures.

Sruti and smrti have been called the two eyes of a brdhmana. Therefore, in the absence of one, a brdhmana is partially blind, and in the absence of both, he is totally blind.

O brdhmanas, you should not be satisfied to simply study the Vedas. If one does not follow what he studies, he will suffer, just as a cow suffers when she falls into the mire. A person who nicely studied the Vedas but did not understand or discuss the true purport is considered to be blind, or a sudra. Such a person cannot obtain the ultimate goal of life.

One should carefully study the Vedic literature every day and when he becomes expert, he should teach others. For a Vaisnava, it is recommended that he surrender his learning and teaching at the lotus feet of Krsna and have faith that he will earn his livelihood without resorting to any other endeavor. If he finds no difficulty in maintaining himself, a devotee should spend his time hearing and chanting the glories of the Supreme Lord, in the association of saintly persons.

In time of emergency, one may accept any of the various types of professions known as rta, amrta, mrta, pramrta and satyanrta, but one should not at any time accept the profession of a dog. The profession of unchasila, collecting grains from the field, is called rta. Collecting without begging is called amrta, begging grains is called mrta, tilling the ground is called pramrta, and trade is called satyanrta. Engaging in the service of low-grade persons, however, is called sva-vrtti, the profession of the dogs. i

Those who have declared that service to others is the profession of a dog have not spoken correctly. There is a gulf of difference between a freely wandering dog and a servant who has sold his life. After eating food given by sinful, fallen brahmanas who earn their livelihood by serving low-class men, even at the risk of their lives, one must observe the vow of candramrta to purify himself.

386 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA dvija-susrusayd labdham suklam sudrasya kirtitam The proper means of livelihood for a brdhmana is to accept charity from his disciples and from those who are honest and righteous. Wealth earned from victory in battle, by awarding punishment, and by settling disputes within his kingdom—these three are honest means of livelihood for ksatriyas. The proper means for a vaisya to earn his livelihood are farming, trade, and cow protection. A sudra should maintain himself by serving the brdhmarxas.

However, salt made by evaporating ocean water and saindhava salt are always considered pure and can therefore be accepted directly from anyone. Eating food on an iron plate amounts to eating stool and one who gives such a plate of food goes to hell as a result. One should deal with brdhmanas who engage in cow protection, business, weaving, serving others, and earning money by means of investment, just as one deals with sudras.

them to be foolish, is certainly demoniac. If, during the sraddha ceremony, a Vaisnava takes only a morsel of food and a few drops of water, it is to be understood that the performer has given food equal to Mount Sumeru and water equal to an ocean.

Learned devotees should never give Lord Hari's remnants of food to non-Vaisnavas, who are simply attached to ritualistic activities, and who therefore observe fasting with an ulterior motive on an Ekadasi that is contaminated due to overlapping with Dasaml. By doing so, such non- devotees will go to hell.

Learned authorities have recommended that one worship Lord Hari in the morning, at noon, and in the evening. If one is unable to worship the Lord elaborately three times a day, he should worship Him properly in the morning and then, simply offer flowers at noon and in the evening. At noon, one should also offer varieties of food to Lord Hari and then partake of the prasdda. By avoiding the worship of the Lord in this way, one degrades himself to a hellish condition of life.

O emperor, one should never eat while keeping his plate on a three-legged wooden table, in a congested or narrow place, or during an inappropriate time, such as the early evening. A small portion of prasdda should first be offered into fire. A man should not eat everything on his plate. Rather, he should leave a small portion of food.

While having his meal, one should eat the salty and sour preparations first, followed by the pungent and bitter preparations. If one first eats some liquid preparation, then eats some solid food, and then once again, at the end, eats some more of the liquid preparation, he will acquire strength and good health. One should first wash his hands and mouth. Then, while sitting facing east or north, he should have his meal while maintaining silence, after offering a small portion of the food to the pahca-prarias. When finished, one should nicely wash his hands and mouth.

Eating while covering one's head, while facing a corner, or while wearing shoes is considered to be demoniac. One should avoid eating in the middle of the night, at noon, when one is suffering from indigestion, while wearing wet clothes, while sitting on a broken chair, while sitting in a vehicle, on a broken plate, or by placing the food on the ground or in the palms of one's hands. Overeating is a great impediment on the path of good health, it reduces one's duration of life, it hampers one's progress to heaven, it causes one to accumulate sin, and it becomes a cause of public criticism. Therefore, one should refrain from overeating.

कथञ्चिद् आश्रयाद् येषा॰ श्वापि तद्-गन्ध-भाग् भवेत्

śrī-kṛṣṇa-caraṇāmbhoja-madhupebhyo namo namaḥ |
kathañcid āśrayād yeṣāṁ śvāpi tad-gandha-bhāg bhavet

I offer my obeisances at the lotus feet of the devotees, who are just like bumblebees at the lotus feet of Lord Krsna. By the association of devotees even a dog -like person can become attracted to the sweet aroma of Lord Krsna's lotus feet.

HBV 10.2

432 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA My dear sons, it has been ascertained by learned authorities that service to great souls is the gateway to liberation whereas association with those who are overly fond of women is the gateway to hell. Great souls are those who treat everyone equally, who are peaceful, who are devoid of anger, who are the well-wishers of all living entities, and who never act in an abominable manner.

īśvare tad-adhīneṣu bāliśeṣu dviṣatsu ca |
prema-maitrī-kṛpopekṣā yaḥ karoti sa madhyamaḥ

One who loves the Supreme Lord, makes friendship with His devotees, displays mercy to those who are ignorant, and avoids those who are envious of the Supreme Lord, is known as a madhyama--adhikari Vaisnava.

HBV 10.76

तत्रैव [भ्प् ११.२.४७] -- arcāyām eva haraye pūjāṁ yaḥ śraddhayehate |

na tad-bhakteṣu cānyeṣu sa bhaktaḥ prākṛtaḥ smṛtaḥ

A devotee who worships the Deity in the temple but does not know how to behave toward other devotees and people in general is a kanisdw-adhikari Vaisnava.

HBV 10.77

श्रद्धया पूजन प्रेम-बोधक भक्त इत्य् अपि ।

sauparṇe śrī-śakroktau –
kalau bhāgavataṁ nāma yasya puṁsaḥ prajāyate |
jananī putriṇī tena pitṝṇāṁ tu dhurandharaḥ of the Lord's devotees, which is found in the Qaruda Purana) kalau bhdgavatam ndma yasya pumsah prajdyete janani puttrini tena pitrrndntu dhurandharah If someone becomes a devotee of the Supreme Lord in the age of Kali, he will be able to beget a son who will give great satisfaction to his forefathers.

कलौ भागवत नाम दुर्लभ नैव लभ्यते ।
ब्रह्म-रुद्र-पदोत्कृष्ट गुरुणा कथित मम

kalau bhāgavataṁ nāma durlabhaṁ naiva labhyate |
brahma-rudra-padotkṛṣṭaṁ guruṇā kathitaṁ mama

The aim of life in this age of Kali is to become a devotee of the Supreme Lord. Brhaspati informed me that the position of being a bhakta (devotee of the Supreme Lord) is superior to that of Rudra.

HBV 10.85

यस्य भागवत चिह्न दृश्यते तु हरिर् मुने ।

yasya bhāgavataṁ cihnaṁ dṛśyate tu harir mune |
gīyate ca kalau devā jñeyās te nāsti saṁśayaḥ

O sage, there is no doubt that those who constantly chant the holy name of Lord Hari are equal in every respect to the demigods.

HBV 10.86

श्री-मार्कण्डेयोक्तौ – समीपे तिष्ठते यस्य ह अन्त-काले'पि वैष्णवः ।

śrī-mārkaṇḍeyoktau –
samīpe tiṣṭhate yasya ha anta-kāle'pi vaiṣṇavaḥ |
gacchate paramaṁ sthānaṁ yadyapi brahmahā bhavet

Even a most sinful person who killed a brahmana can attain the supreme destination if he is surrounded by Vaisnavas at the time of death.

नारदीये श्री-वामदेव-रुक्माङ्गद-स वादे [नार्प् २.१०.३७] – that is found in the Ndradiyot Parana this verse appears) svapaco'pi mahlpdla visnor bhakto dvijadhikah visnu bhakti vihino yo yatisca ivapacadhikah O foremost king, if a dog-eater becomes a Vaisnava then he is superior to a brahmana who is not a devotee. However, even a person in the renounced order of life, if he is devoid of devotional service to Lord Hari, He must be considered lower than a dog-eater.

HBV 10.88

skānde revā-khaṇḍe śrī-brahmoktau –
indro maheśvaro brahmā paraṁ brahma tadaiva hi |
śvapaco'pi bhavaty eva yadā tuṣṭā'si keśava

O Lord Kesava, if You are pleased then even a dog-eater can come to the platform of Indra, Siva, Brahma, or even the Supreme Lord.

O Lord Acyuta, Your devotees certainly appreciate the importance of religious principles. One who does not engage in Your devotional service will certainly become contaminated by all kinds of sinful activities. This is the verdict of the scriptures. O Acyuta! O Hari! Even the sinful activities performed by Your devotees are counted as pious activities, whereas the pious activities performed by non-devotees are considered to be sinful. O Supreme Personality of Godhead! O Janardana! One who is devoid of Your devotional service lives in hell. On the other hand, one who has devotion for Your lotus feet becomes purified even if he was a killer of a brahmana. Unalloyed devotional service unto You is glorified as being superior to mere liberation. There is no doubt that Your devotees are already acting on the liberated platform.

Until a son who has devotion for the lotus feet of the Supreme Lord is born, the forefathers of that family wander about this world, being attracted by the offering of oblations. Only the devotees of Lord Hari are actually famous as persons of great knowledge, perfect yogis, and renowned performers of sacrifice.

nityam ārādhyamāno'pi tatra viṣṇur na tṛpyati

Lord Hari does not reside in a place where there are no Vaisnavas, even if He is worshiped with offerings of sandalwood paste, water, and fragrant flowers. Lord Hari does not feel pleased to remain at a place where there are no Vaisnavas, even if He is opulently worshiped by people who observe fasting while chanting and dancing.

One who, after countless lifetimes, realizes, "I am an eternal servant of Lord Vasudeva," is able to deliver all the people of the world. There is no doubt that such a person will go to associate with the Lord in His supreme abode. What then can be said of a person whose life and soul is Lord Hari, and who has conquered his senses?

474 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA a family of outcastes, he can purify the entire three worlds simply by his presence. The devotees of the Supreme Lord should never be considered sudras but rather, they should be glorified as exalted personalities. Members of any of the four varnas, if they are devoid of devotional service to Lord Kesava— they are certainly no better than sudras. O vaisya, those who are proud of being servants of the servants of Lord Visnu and those who honor the remnants of food eaten by a Vaisnava will never be overwhelmed by maya. Indeed, they will attain the destination of those who are great performers of sacrifice.

It cannot be denied that there are many holy places next to sacred rivers, or that the demigods appear in deity forms made of earth and stone. However, it takes a long time for these to purify the soul whereas saintly persons can purify one simply by being seen.

The demigods controlling fire, the sun, the moon, the stars, earth, water, ether, air, speech, and mind cannot remove the sins of their worshipers, who thus continue in material consciousness. On the other hand, saintly devotees destroy one's sins when they are respectfully served for even a moment. Those who consider their material bodies to be their self, who consider their wife and children as their own, who consider the land of their birth to be worshipable, and who go to a holy place of pilgrimage simply to bathe in the river, without inquiring from the saintly persons residing there, are no better than a cow or an ass.

The demigods give the living entities both happiness and distress but the activities of great souls like you (Narada), who are an unalloyed devotee of the Lord, only result in happiness for all beings. Those who worship the demigods receive reciprocation from them in a way that just corresponds to the offering. The demigods are disposers of karma and thus, they follow the living entities, like one's shadow. Sddhus are actually merciful, however, even to the most fallen souls.

Just as cold, fear, and darkness are dispelled by the appearance of fire— foolishness, fear, and ignorance are destroyed for one who is engaged in serving the devotees of the Lord. The devotees of the Lord, who are peacefully fixed in absolute knowledge, are the only shelter for those who are repeatedly rising and falling within the fearful ocean of material existence. Such devotees are just like a strong boat that comes to rescue one who is drowning in the ocean. Just as food sustains the life of all creatures, just as I am the ultimate shelter for those who are distressed, and just as religion is the wealth of those

Just to benefit the conditioned souls, Brahma, who was born on the universal lotus flower and who is adored by all classes of men, appointed me to the post of Yamaraja long ago, so that I could engage myself in awarding everyone the results of their fruitive activities. I punish those who are averse to the lotus feet of Lord Hari, the spiritual master of everyone, and I offer my respectful obeisances unto those who have surrendered at His lotus feet.

If you are actually my faithful servants then do not bring to me those persons who fast on Ekadasi, even though they may have committed hundreds of sinful activities. Even though one may have committed millions of sinful activities, if he remembers Lord Janardana at the time of death then you should not approach him. This is my order. Neither I, nor Brahma, nor Siva, nor Agni, nor Indra, nor any other demigod is capable of punishing a Vaisnava. Indeed, I treat all Vaisnavas with the greatest respect. Therefore, you should stay far away from Vaisnavas. Vaisnavas are as worshipable as Lord Visnu and so, those who offend them will certainly meet with destruction.

Simply by remembering an exalted Vaisnava, hundreds of sinful reactions are burnt to ashes. There is no doubt about this. How can I possibly describe the glories of the water that has washed their lotus feet? Simply by receiving the dust from their lotus feet, one can achieve the benefit of bathing in the Ganga, Narmada and Yamuna. Everyone can become thoroughly purified by

If one offends a Vaisnava then no one, including the demigods, Gandharvas, Yaksas, Uragas, Raksasas, or sages can give him protection. O great souls, due to fear of the Sudarsana cakra, I cannot even dream of displeasing the Vaisnavas, by means of my body, mind, or speech. There is not much benefit obtained by giving charity, performing austerities, and conducting sacrifices. However, simply by worshiping the devotees of Lord Hari, one achieves all kinds of opulence. Therefore, it is the duty of every wise man to carefully worship the Vaisnavas. Anything offered to a Vaisnava, according to one's capacity, yields unlimited benefit.

Completely rejecting all kinds of religious rituals that are materially motivated, this Bhagavata Purana explains the highest truth, which is understandable by those who are pure in heart. The highest truth is reality, which is distinguished from illusion for the benefit of everyone. This truth uproots the three-fold miseries. This beautiful Bhdgavatam, compiled by the great sage, Vyasadeva, is sufficient in itself for realization of the Absolute Truth. What is the need for any other literature? As soon as one attentively and submissively hears the message of Bhdgavatam, the Supreme Lord is established within his heart.

Srimad-Bhagavatam is the literary incarnation of God and it was compiled by Srila Vyasadeva, the incarnation of God. It is meant for the ultimate welfare of all people. It is the most perfectly ecstatic literature. Srila Vyasadeva delivered the Srimad-Bhagavatam to his son, who is the most respected among all self-realized souls, after extracting the cream of all Vedic literatures and histories.

The Bhdgavata Purdna is as brilliant as the sun and it arose just after the departure of Lord Krsna for His abode, accompanied by religion and knowledge. Persons who have lost their vision due to the dense darkness of ignorance in the age of Kali will get light from this Purdna.

542 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA The material miseries of the living entity, which he unnecessarily suffers, can be mitigated by engagement in the devotional service of the Lord. People in general do not know this, however, and so Vyasadeva compiled this great literature to reveal the Absolute Truth. Simply by hearing this Vedic literature, an attraction for loving devotional service to Lord Krsna, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, sprouts up at once to extinguish the fire of lamentation, illusion, and fearfulness.

All other Puranas shine brightly in an assembly of saintly devotees only as long as Srimad-Bhagavatam is not heard. Srimad-Bhagavatam is declared to be the essence of Veddnta philosophy. One who has derived great satisfaction from its transcendental taste will never be attracted to any other literature. Just as the Gariga is the greatest of all rivers, Lord Acyuta the supreme among all controllers, and Lord Sambhu the greatest of Vaisnavas—Srimad- Bhagavatam is the foremost of all Puranas. Srimad-Bhagavatam is the spotless Purana. It is most dear to the Vaisnavas because it describes the supreme knowledge that is the subject matter for paramahamsas. This Bhagavatam reveals the means for becoming free from material bondage, as well as transcendental knowledge, renunciation, and devotion. Anyone who seriously studies Srimad-Bhagavatam, who properly hears and chants it with devotion, will surely be liberated.

546 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA It is extremely difficult to attain the shelter of Lord Narayana by means of cultivation of knowledge. The source of all knowledge is sdstra and sdstra is revealed through the mouth of the spiritual master. Therefore, advancement of spiritual knowledge is dependent on the qualifications of the spiritual master. O sages, it is for this reason that the spiritual master is accepted as the topmost member of human society. The Supreme Lord assumes the form of the spiritual master and mercifully delivers the fallen, conditioned souls by means of instructions from sdstra. It is the duty of those who are afraid of material existence to worship the lotus feet of a spiritual master who is able to remove the darkness of ignorance through dissemination of an understanding of the scriptures. Respectfully receiving the Vedic literature through aural reception destroys all sinful reactions, awards one pious merit, purifies one of all contamination, and endows one with opulence, liberation, steadiness of mind, and above all, devotional service. One who preaches the true purport of sastra to all classes of men is referred to as jagadgum.

Glorification of the Lord should be performed in the parampard system, conveyed from spiritual master to disciple. Such glorification is relished by those who are no longer interested in the false, temporary glorification of news within the material world. Descriptions of the Lord are the proper medicine for the conditioned soul undergoing repeated birth and death. Therefore, who will not happily listen to the glorification of the Lord except a butcher, or one who is killing his own self?

574 SRI HARI-BHAKTI-VILASA A sincere disciple should practice detaching the mind from everything material while living in the association of devotees. He should be merciful to those in an inferior position, cultivate friendship with those on an equal level, and very humbly serve those in a higher spiritual position. In this way, he should deal with other living beings. While serving the spiritual master, a disciple should practice cleanliness, austerity, tolerance, silence, study of the Vedic literature, simplicity, celibacy, nonviolence, and equanimity toward material dualities, such as heat and cold, and happiness and distress. One should practice meditation by constantly seeing oneself as an eternal, conscious self, and seeing the Lord as the absolute controller of everything. To facilitate one's meditation, one should live in a secluded place and give up all attachment to one's temporary family situation. Giving up all attempts to decorate the temporary material body, one should dress himself with old, discarded cloth, or tree bark. In this way, one should learn to be satisfied in any material situation. One should have firm faith that he will achieve success by following the instructions of the literature that describes the glories of the Supreme Lord. At the same time, one should avoid blaspheming other scriptures. One should rigidly control his mind, speech, and bodily activities, always speak the truth, and bring the mind and senses under full control. One should hear, glorify and meditate upon the transcendental pastimes of the Lord. Indeed, one should become absorbed in hearing and chanting about the names, forms, qualities, and pastimes of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Simultaneously, one should perform all of one's activities as an offering to the Lord. Any sacrifice, charity, or penance that one executes should be done for the Lord's satisfaction. Similarly, one should only chant mantras that glorify the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Whatever one finds pleasing should also be offered to the Supreme Lord—even his wife, children, home, and very life. One who actually desires his ultimate self-interest should cultivate friendship with since devotees of Lord Krsna. At the same time, one should develop an attitude of service toward all living beings by helping them advance in Krsna consciousness. One should especially render service to the pure devotees of the Lord. One should learn how to associate with the devotees of the Lord by gathering with them to chant the glories of the Lord. This process is most purifying. As devotees thus develop their loving friendship, they feel mutual happiness and satisfaction. And, by encouraging one another, they are able to give up material sense gratification, which is the cause of all suffering.

One should purify himself by seeing, touching, worshiping, serving, and offering prayers and obeisances to the Deity, and to My pure devotees. One should also hear and glorify My transcendental qualities and pastimes and thus always meditate upon Me. One should offer to Me whatever one has in his possession, and accepting oneself as My eternal servant, one should give oneself completely to Me. One should enjoy life by participating in the festivals, such as Janmastami, that glorify My pastimes, by singing, dancing, playing musical instruments, and discussing Me with other devotees. One should observe religious vows, such as Ekadasi, and take initiation according to the procedures mentioned in the Vedic literature. One should faithfully support the installation of My Deity, and work for the construction of My temples and villages, as well as flower gardens and fruit orchards. One should consider oneself to be My humble servant, without duplicity, and thus help to clean My temple. First, one should sweep, and then one should cleanse with water and cow dung. Thereafter, one should sprinkle scented water and decorate the temple with mandalas. In this way, one should act just like My servant. A devotee should never advertise his devotional activities, so that they will not be the cause of false pride. One should never use lamps that were offered to Me for other purposes, and similarly, one should never offer to Me anything that was used by others. Whatever is most dear to oneself, one should offer to Me. Indeed, such an offering qualifies one for eternal life.

Thereafter, according to the rules prescribed for his dsrama, an intelligent devotee should first complete his morning and evening duties and then worship the Supreme Lord with full attention. For a devotee, there is no fault if he is unable to perform his morning or evening duties due to being engaged in some other devotional service to the Supreme Lord.

Neophyte devotees are advised to continue performing their prescribed religious and occupational duties until their faith becomes stronger. It is for this reason that descriptions of prescribed duties are given here. However, because devotees who have developed strong faith are not interested in performing fruitive activities, they are not degraded when they fail to perform them. This will be described in detail later on. So that neophyte devotees who desire the quick fulfillment of their material ambitions can eventually achieve perfection, learned authorities have propounded the performance of morning, noon, and evening worship separately from devotional service.

One should meditate on Vmdavana, which is full of transcendental trees, such as the punndga, jackfruit, ndga, kdhcana, bakula, bilva, wild kuruvaka. The branches of these trees bend down due to the burden of their innumerable flowers. One should meditate on the river bank, which is decorated with campaka flowers, incense, ghee lamps, a bed, flower garlands, a pearl necklace, a flag, and many other types of fragrant wildflowers, which were used by the residents of Vmdavana for their worship and thus placed within the forest.

If one offers a valuable and excellent thing to the Lord, even a small quantity, he will receive a great deal of happiness as a result. We had earlier described the benefit one obtains by donating clothes and ornaments to Lord Krsna. There are varieties of things used for the worship of the Supreme Lord. Vaisnavas who know very well the teachings of the tantras have prescribed an increase or decrease in the number of articles required for worship of the Lord, according to the capacity of the worshiper.

Any ingredients that have not been listed in this connection can also be used in the worship of the Supreme Lord, if they are in accordance with the rules and regulations prescribed by one's authorized disciplic succession.

Actually, every devotee should engage in the worship of Lord Sri Krsna as a regular daily function, and everyone should participate in the grand festivals, such as Janmastami. There may be some more excellent ingredients for worship that I have failed to mention and these can be ascertained from learned devotees, who are found in many places. If any of the above-mentioned ingredients are not available then a devotee should offer whatever he can collect, or he can offer the unavailable ingredients to the Supreme Lord within his mind.

A householder who enjoys sex with his wife only during the prescribed period after menstruation and is attached to his wife and no other woman is to be considered a brahmacdri. The menstruation cycle actually continues for sixteen days and enjoying sexual intercourse during the first four days is condemnable. Thereafter, if one enjoys sex on an even day, he will receive a son and if he enjoys sex on an odd day, he will receive a daughter. If one can avoid an inauspicious phase of the moon, as well as the influence of the maghd and miila stars, and wait for the appearance of the ten auspicious stars all together, he will be blessed with a son who will attain his goal of life.

O foremost of kings, hear now about those persons who will reside in hell, where they will have to eat stool and drink urine. Those men and women who enjoy sexual intercourse, eat meat, and apply oil to their bodies on the fourteenth day, eighth day, the new moon day, the full moon day, and on the days when the sun enters a new sign of the zodiac will go to reside in hell. A person who enjoys sex with a cow, horse, or any other animal, or who enjoys sex and then takes medication to terminate the pregnancy, as well as one who enjoys sex with his wife in a temple, at the house of a brdhmana, or at the house of his spiritual master, loses his qualification to be called a member of one of the four dsramas.

What to speak of enjoying sex with another man's wife, one should never even think about it. Those who run away with another man's wife will be reborn as a boneless worm. A person who enjoys sex with another man's wife will go to hell after death and even while living, he will diminish his duration of life. Enjoying another man's wife is harmful for both this life and the next. Considering this fact carefully, a wise person should only enjoy sex with his wife after the four days of her menstrual period. Everyone should follow these regulations for their own benefit.

One who worships Lord Hari, even though he may have acquired the ingredients for worship by begging from others, or had worshiped Him with some material motive, will be freed from all sinful reactions and thereafter attain the supreme abode of the Lord. By worshiping Lord Janardana, all of one's obstacles are vanquished, one's mind becomes purified, and one ultimately attains liberation. There is no doubt that those who are inclined to worship Lord Hari will achieve the four objectives of human life— religiosity, economic development, sense gratification, and liberation. The performance of sacrifices and the study of the Vedas do not award one even one-sixteenth the merit one receives by worshiping Lord Narayana.

By the inclination to serve the lotus feet of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, suffering humanity can immediately cleanse the dirt which has accumulated in their minds during innumerable births. Like the Ganges water, which emanates from the toes of the lotus feet of the Lord, such a process immediately cleanses the mind, and thus Krsna consciousness gradually increases.

O Maitreya, as fire purifies all kinds of metal, the chanting of the holy name of Lord Krsna destroys all kinds of sinful reactions. By fixing one's mind on the Supreme Lord, one will never have to experience the torments of hell. By meditating upon Him, one's passage to the heavenly planets becomes opened. By absorbing one's mind on Him, elevation to Brahmaloka becomes an insignificant accomplishment. The inexhaustible Lord, when meditated upon by a pure-hearted devotee, sits in his heart and awards him liberation. Is it astonishing that simply by chanting the holy name of the Lord, all of one's sinful reactions are vanquished?

Indeed, he has atoned not only for sins performed in this life but for those performed in millions of past lives because in a helpless condition he chanted the holy name of Narayana. Even though he did not chant purely, he chanted without offense, and therefore he is now eligible for liberation. The chanting of the holy name of Lord Visnu is the best process of atonement for a thief of gold, a drunkard, one who betrays a friend or relative, one who kills a brdhmana, or one who indulges in sex with the wife of his guru or another superior. It is also the best method of atonement for one who murders women, the king or his father, for one who slaughters cows, and for all other sinful men. Simply by chanting the holy name of Lord Visnu, such sinful persons may attract the attention of the Supreme Lord, who therefore considers, "Because this man has chanted My holy name, My duty is to give him protection."

The degree of purification that one can attain by chanting the holy names of Lord Hari cannot be attained by following the various methods of atonement for counteracting sinful reactions that are prescribed by thoughtful sages, such as Manu. The unique quality of chanting the holy names of the Lord is that, along with removing one's sinful reactions, the holy names reveal the transcendental glories of the Supreme Lord, who is praised with select verses.

One who chants the holy name of the Lord is immediately freed from the reactions of unlimited sins, even if he chants indirectly [to indicate something else], jokingly, for musical entertainment, or even neglectfully. This is accepted by all the learned scholars of the scriptures. If one chants the holy name of Hari and then dies because of an accidental misfortune, such as falling from the top of a house, slipping and suffering broken bones while traveling on the road, being bitten by a serpent, being afflicted with pain and high fever, or being injured by a weapon, one is immediately absolved from having to enter hellish life, even though he is sinful.

Therefore, it should be understood that one is easily relieved from all sinful reactions by chanting the holy name of the Lord, as well as His qualities and activities. This is the only process recommended for relief from sinful reactions. Even if one chants the holy name of the Lord with improper pronunciation, he will achieve relief from material bondage if he chants without offenses. Ajamila, for example, was extremely sinful, but while dying he merely chanted the holy name, and although calling his son, he achieved complete liberation because he remembered the name of Narayana.

Simply by calling out the name of the prostitute's son, Narayana, at the time of death, the sinful Ajamila went back to the supreme abode of Lord Hari. When the most sinful Ajamila went to Vaikuntha, simply by calling out the name, Narayana, not actually referring to the Lord, but to his son, then what can be said about the benefit obtained by chanting the holy name of the Lord with faith and devotion?

O Lord Visnu, we worship Your holy name, which has a transcendental form of pure knowledge, which is self-manifested, and which is the most sought after entity in this world. O supremely worshipable Lord, we offer our unlimited obeisances at Your lotus feet. Simply by hearing the glories of Your holy name, devotees can attain eternal fame and liberation. Those who have accepted the worship of Your lotus feet as the goal of their lives fully engage in chanting Your holy names to achieve Your direct association. Although it is said that one should make his life successful by glorifying whatever he may have heard about Lord Krsna, the complete whole, we are unable to do this because we do not know how to offer prayers in the prescribed manner. Thus we have concluded that it is our utmost duty to simply chant His holy names.

Those who consider the statements of the sruti, smrti and Purdnas that praise the glories of the holy name to be imagination will suffer unlimitedly in hell. Therefore, every intelligent person must be careful about committing offenses against the chanting of the holy names, which are the only benefactor of all conditioned souls and the only object worthy of service for all classes of men.

It is a fact that if a person chants even one holy name of Lord Hari, or hears one holy name, whether he utters the holy names correctly or incorrectly, the holy name will nevertheless deliver him. Still, he may not immediately obtain the principal fruit of chanting the holy names of the Lord. If the holy name is chanted by atheists, who are simply interested in the gratification of their bodies, wealth, and family members, it will eventually bear fruit, but not immediately.
